Welles Finds Cuba Quieter; Navy Landing Up to Officers

Moscow Linked With Outbreaks

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Welles informed the State Department by telephone last night that conditions in some sections of Cuba were quieter, but that outbreaks of lawlessness and violence were still occurring in other regions.

It was known that Americans at several Cuban seaports were holding small boats in readiness to flee to warships off the coast if necessary.

At the same time Navy officials here revealed that commanding officers of American warships have been given authority to land forces to protect lives without consulting higher authorities.

Mine Property Stormed.

Welles said in his telephone call that a mob of around 150 men stormed mine property near Cristo, shooting guns into the air. Troops were called out to disperse the mob.

In Manzanillo, he said, conditions had improved somewhat in the last 24 hours, while quiet reigned in Cienfuegos and Santa Clara.

Jefferson Caffery, Assistant Secretary of State, and other officials of that department remained close to their desks throughout the Sabbath holiday.

Armed Men Seize Food.

Consular reports from the island described conditions in the city and Province of Matanzas as "exceedingly distressing." Armed men were reported commandeering food and even furniture. Officials believed Communists were behind the violence. So far as known, however, the victims were Cubans, and no Americans were molested.

One administration official said a skeleton Communist organization had been set up over the island by men trained in Moscow schools.

In Manzanillo, consular reports said a general strike had been called for today and disorder was feared. Labor troubles were reported to be less acute on American-owned plantations near Antilla.

In Santiago, it was stated, unrest was growing, while even in Havana, where thuosands of troops were on hand, consular advices said robbery and petty thievery were growing alarmingly.

Prisoners' Fate Unknown.

The State Department had received no word concerning the reported imprisoning of 18 American and British citizens at Tanamo by strikers. Officials were inclined to believe the situation was less serious than originally reported.

Diplomatic chiefs said that "normal preparations" were going forward at the State Department for

Japan Is Flayed For Rails Plot

Moscow, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Sharp denunciation of Japan's alleged scheme to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway in North Manchuria was voiced in the government-controlled press here today.

Japanese and Manchoukuo officials were flayed. The Izvestia (the News) charges Japan intends to terrorize Soviet railroad directors and seize the line.

The Pravda (the Truth) concludes a bitter editorial with the comment:

London, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—An exchange telegraph dispatch today from Harbin reported new arrests of Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway following Moscow's recent warning to Japan.

Police have taken Chief Accountant Kubli, Kalina, manager of the C. E. R. power department, and Kavroff, another official, into custody.

2 Aviatrices Will Seek New Endurance Record

New York, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Viola Gentry, of Brooklyn, and Mary Sanson, of Hartford, Conn., announced today they would attempt to break the women's record of 2 days and 4 hours for refueling endurance flight, now held by Frances Marsallis and Louise Thaden.

They said they would take off from Floyd Bennett Airport October 7.

Officials Mark Time While States Swiftly Prepare Rigid Control When Final Vote Rings Down Curtain on Dry Era.

With repeal of the eighteenth amendment so imminent one can count almost with certainty the days until it becomes an accomplished fact, what has the District of Columbia done to prepare for the return of liquor and beer of more than 3.2 per cent?

In two words, virtually nothing.

Confronted with a situation demanding thorough preparation if the local liquor situation is not to become chaotic upon the vote of the thirty-sixth State for repeal, those responsible for legislation which must govern manufacture, sale and distribution of intoxicating beverages here apparently are placidly marking time.

District Lags Behind.

While States throughout the union—wet or dry—have taken cognizance of the inevitable trend of public sentiment and are meeting their respective problems, some with liquor legislation already drafted, the District, quite unconcernedly, lags behind.

Those District officials who appreciate the difficulties confronting a community which changes from dry to wet, the conflicts, jealousies, bitterness and possibly even more sinister complications that must be ironed out before desirable liquor control for the District can be established, admit a deal of time will be required to give effect to proper legislation.

Yet, from their own statements, the time they are allowing for enactment of such legislation is by no means commensurate with the swift flow of the repeal tide.

Unprepared for Change.

It now seems certain that the thirty-sixth State to favor repeal will cast its vote November 7. It seems equally certain that the day will find the District unprepared.

The District of Columbia went dry March 3, 1917, under the Sheppard act.

This act was repealed April 5, 1933, with passage of the local beer bill applying to beverages of not more than 3.2 per cent.

Legal opinions differ as to just what the wet or dry status of the District will be when the final State has voted for repeal.

Opinions Vary Sharply.

Andrew Wilson, president of the Antisaloon League here, says the District of Columbia will be wet when prohibition is repealed.

Both agree the process of establishing liquor control in the District will involve submission by the Commissioners to Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, of a plan approved by Bride.

And with this step—as yet unplained—the business of bringing

Rails Official Slain in Grudge From Ambush

Thomas Price, 65, Murdered by Mountaineer Fined for Trespass.

Waynesville, N. C., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Thomas Price, 65, retired New York business man and secretary of the Union Pacific Railroad, was shot to death as he rode horseback along a mountain trail today.

Dewey Potter, 35, a mountaineer Price prosecuted for trespassing upon his 1,200-acre estate near here, admitted the shooting, authorities said.

Potter came to Waynesville, confessed, and was jailed. His brother, Clarence, 35, and Erik Ledford, 22, who accompanied him, also were held.

Williams, shot in the thigh, said he, Buchanan and Price were riding about 3 miles from Price's estate when Dewey Potter and several other men stepped into their path and began shooting.

Price, a native of Wales, came to America as a boy, and from his first, humble railway job rose to an outstanding position. He was connected with managements of 19 railways, public utilities and other companies.

Trouble with Potter grew from the young mountaineer's hunting on the Price estate. He was convicted and fined Saturday.

Herriot Ill; Fever Runs 104 Degrees

Former Premier Suffers Relapse From Cold.

Lyons, France, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Edouard Herriot, former premier and perennial Mayor of Lyons, was seriously ill at his home today, suffering a relapse from a cold.

A doctor's bulletin said Herriot was running a high fever. His temperature at midnight was 104 degrees.

Crew Plays Cards As Ship Founders

Escape in Lifeboats Just Before Craft Sinks.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—A little leak grew to a gaping hole in the hold of the fishing schooner Thomaston late last night, but not until the water almost reached the forecastle, where four members of the crew were playing cards, did anyone notice the ship was foundering.

Capt. David Peno was hastily roused, all pumps were started, but in less than an hour the vessel went down in 60 fathoms off Scituate.

A few seconds before she sank the six men aboard leaped into two boats and rowed for shore.

Fan Dancer Still Dances.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Sally Rand, the fan dancer, planned tonight to continue her so-called nude appearances at the World's Fair despite a one-year jail sentence which she faces following conviction for "indecent exposure."

Ballistics Link Kelly to Killing Five at Station

Same Gun Used in Slaying Policeman in Chicago Robbery, Claim.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Gus Winkler, notorious gang leader whom police have hunted since the robbery of a mail truck and slaying of a policeman here Friday, was arrested and taken to the detective bureau tonight.

He was questioned regarding the robbery of a Federal Reserve bank mail truck and the slaying of Policeman Miles Cunningham.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Ballistics experts tonight said the killing of Policeman Miles Cunningham here had been linked with slaying of five men at Kansas City Union Station June 17. Four officers and Frank Nash were mowed down in attempt to free the latter.

George (Machine Gun) Kelly, one of the Nation's most widely sought criminals, is wanted in both cases, and Federal detectives, disguised as farm laborers, are combing the Midwest for him.

Kelly also is sought in the kidnaping of Charles Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma City oil man.

Woman Novelist Dies Abroad, Leaving Note

Bath, England, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Alice Muriel Williamson, Virginia-born novelist, found unconscious in her hotel room Saturday, died today. Police have a note in her handwriting and an inquest will be held.

The novelist was found when she failed to respond to repeated knocking. Oxygen was administered last night in vain.

Sally Eilers Weds Movie Director

Couple Flies to Yuma for Ceremony.

Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Sally Eilers, screen actress, and Harry Joe Brown, motion-picture director, flew here from Los Angeles today and were married.

Brown has had a career as a stage and screen actor and producer, newspaper writer and Army officer. Miss Eilers has been in the films since 1926.

Charles Piez, President's Friend, Dangerously Ill

Charles Piez, Shoreham Hotel, retired Chicago manufacturer and friend of President Roosevelt, was in a critical condition with pneumonia at Garfield Hospital last night. Piez was taken to the hospital Saturday.

He became acquainted with the President during the war, when he was with the Emergency Fleet and the Chief Executive was Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Army Expert Taken to Aid Farm Plan Feeding Poor

Maj. Littlejohn to Head Unit Buying Crop Surpluses.

Will Direct Drive To Raise Prices

General Staff's Fiscal Officer Will Spend $75,000,000.

Maj. Robert M. Littlejohn, fiscal expert of the Army's general staff, has been selected to spend more than $75,000,000 as part of President Roosevelt's plans to feed and clothe the needy from this country's food and cotton surpluses.

Formal announcement of Maj. Littlejohn's appointment will be made today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The division will, within a week, launch a drive to raise prices of farm products to a parity with prewar levels.

Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army chief of staff, has consented to the drafting of Maj. Littlejohn.

Far-Reaching Work.

The operations of Littlejohn's agency will extend into every State in putting into effect the President's plan to muster full strength of the Federal Government in the fight to distribute the food surplus among the needy.

One of the prime functions of the Littlejohn agency will be to guarantee equitable prices for producers and at the same time insure protection of the interests of consumers by outlawing profiteering.

The agency will be charged with maintaining prices of hogs, cattle, cotton, rice, wheat, corn and dairy products at levels existing in August, 1909 and July, 1914. Tobacco prices are to be adjusted with the levels of August, 1919 and July, 1929.

Will Spend Millions.

While the original task of the stabilizing bureau will be to expend the $75,000,000 fund ordered set aside for the purpose last week, it is probable the agency later will have available if needed other funds from processing taxes, the Public Works Administration and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration running into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

The agency will coordinate all Federal relief activities by cooperating with the Federal Emergency

Two Cremated In Plane Crash

Driver Crushed to Death as Auto Capsizes Near Roanoke.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—An airplane crash and an automobile accident claimed three lives near here late this afternoon.

Charles E. Hayden, about 25, pilot, and Versal McCarty, passenger, both of Vinton, were burned to death when a small biplane went into a spin, crashed into a ditch from a low altitude and caught fire.

The automobile victim was Burt O. Stanley, 50, Nashville, Tenn., who was pinned beneath his roadster as it turned over in a collision at Salem. His skull was fractured.

The flier came here August 25 from Lewistown, Pa., and carried passengers from a field near Stewartsville, several miles east of Roanoke. He made several flights this afternoon before taking off with McCarty.

Hammer Used to Kill Paris Theater Manager

Deadly "3d Rail" Puts End to Freedom After Traffic Jam-Up.

For one delirious half hour the 14-year-old chimpanzee swung and clambered about the West End elevated station at Coney Island. He brought peals of laughter with his funny faces and circus tricks.

He hadn't had so much fun since he was an "adopted son" of a tramp steamer skipper from Australia.

But Sookie got just a bit too frisky. He started racing trains and succeeded in jamming traffic 15 minutes.

Emergency police crews were called. Trainmen with ropes and nets tried to bag him.

Sookie stepped on a high tension third rail. He screamed, quivered, and died.

Mrs. Billy Rodgers, his owner, said Sookie earned her $5,000 a year.

Lindberghs Take Air En Route for Moscow

Moscow, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Leningrad tonight en route to Moscow, according to advices here.

The famous flying couple expressed intention of alighting on the river here if possible. Otherwise, they indicated, they would fly over the city and back to Leningrad.

Heads Relief.

MAJ. ROBERT M. LITTLEJOHN, who has been selected to direct a new Government foodstuff relief agency.

D. C. Auto Tags To Be Delayed Until March 1

Lack of Steel to Force Use of Old Plates Well Into 1934.

An acute steel shortage will cause at least three months delay in issuance of 200,000 automobile and other vehicular tags in 1934, Capt. M. M. Barnard, District penal institutions superintendent, disclosed last night.

Revealing two carloads of steel for manufacture of plates by prisoners in Lorton Reformatory have been condemned, Barnard predicted distribution to motorists could not begin before March 1.

He said it probably will be necessary for District officials to arrange with police of other States to refrain from arresting Washington drivers for using 1933 tags in the first two months of 1934.

24-Hour Shifts Planned.

"We are upset," Barnard declared, "but we are going to bear down, and work tag shifts day and night."

The penal superintendent pointed out many motorists would be forced to operate on 1933 tags as late as April 1, because distribution probably won't begin until March 1 and a month will be required to parcel them out.

Barnard explained District officials last spring contracted with a steel corporation in Gary, Ind., to deliver five carloads of steel suitable for license manufacture by June 1 last.

"We failed to get any shipment until August," he said. "Then we only got two carloads and they had to be condemned.

May Cancel Contract.

"The other three carloads haven't arrived yet. It may be necessary to cancel the contract and place rush orders elsewhere."

About 6,000 pairs of tags out of 200,000 pairs needed have been manufactured for 1934 out of surplus 1933 steel. Barnard said distribution of these probably would be delayed because the number would be "a mere drop in the bucket."

Wild Bronco Kills Woman "Cowboy"

2 Young Sons See Victim Crushed at Rodeo.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Mariai Gibson, 39, professional bronco rider of Havre, Mont., died today of injuries received at a rodeo here last night.

"Pick-up men" were riding to aid her when her bronco fell, rolling over her.

General Strike Voted As Protest a Lisbon

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Workers Federation delegates today voted a general strike to protest a government decree designed to dissolve all labor syndicates. The strike probably will be called October 5.

Credit Expansion Plan Mapped by Roosevelt As Aid to Closed Banks

Agriculture Head Warns Against Cheap Money as Dangerous.

Farm Acreage Decrease Essential to Recovery, Secretary Says.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last night again declared no amount of inflation or price-fixing alone can bring about economic recovery.

It was the second time within a week that the Cabinet officer, who works closely with President Roosevelt in the gigantic effort to bring relief to the farmers, has emphasized his views on inflation.

His speech in Chicago last Thursday, in which he declared inflation could not be considered as a cure-all, created wide discussion. It came when a powerful group of inflationists were seeking to force Mr. Roosevelt to commit himself on this controversial issue.

Reflects President's Claim.

Because of Wallace's close association with the Chief Executive, his remarks were interpreted in some quarters as reflecting the President's views.

Wallace asked the Nation to be patient with the administration in its development of new social and economic machinery to meet the present crisis.

"No amount of inflation, no dumping or stabilization efforts, no attempts at price fixing will by themselves prove to be enough," he warned.

"Combined with production control, all these things might help us; but without that, they are only patchwork on a structure that is badly off balance at base."

Appeals to All.

"I appeal not only to farmers but to all classes to understand the necessarily fundamental nature of an adjusted farm production, and to realize that not in the success of such programs, but in their possible defeat, lies the danger of chaos and hunger.

"President Roosevelt, George Peek and all of us in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration

Newark Faces Exchange Loss

New York Brokers Move to Pick Other City in Building Row.

Newark, Sept. 25 (A.P.).—The Newark Ledger said tonight Howard Froelick, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange committee which chose Newark for stock trading operations, said today if legal difficulties involving the city-owned Center Market are not settled tomorrow, the exchange will locate elsewhere.

The Ledger quoted Mayor Ellenstein as saying this information had been given him. He added: "I suppose that means Jersey City."

Difficulties arose after Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon issued an order to make the exchange and Newark show cause why the present lessee of the building should not be permitted to remain.

128th Chute Jump Kills Stunt Flier

He jumped from the plane of Lee Bowman during an exhibition at Derby Field and was drowned in Derby Pond, when a high wind carried him off his course and dropped him into the water.

The cords of his parachute twisted about his body so he was unable to swim. Aid did not reach him for several minutes and a three-hour attempt to revive him failed.

Germany's Nestor Of Stage, 71, Dies

Bonn was a friend of the former kaiser, whom he portrayed in a post-war film.

Child Kidnap Threat Brings Police Guard

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Police today guarded the home of Maj. Walter R. Miller because of a reported kidnap threat against his 4-year-old daughter, Mary Lu.

Miss Anne Struckland, 18, a maid, said a man warned her by telephone last night that she had "better watch" the child "because something may happen."

SECRETARY HENRY WALLACE last night asserted inflation or price fixing alone will not bring national recovery. He urged application of all features of the administration's program.

Capital Funds To Be Boosted By $8,000,000

Stimulus to Trade Seen as Hamilton Bank Opens Today.

The sum of $8,000,000 will flow into the trade channels of the Capital today when the new Hamilton National Bank releases deposits which have been frozen since the bank holiday.

Conservators have yet to be appointed to replace the four conservators who have been absorbed by the organization of the Hamilton.

The appointment of L. H. Johnson, teller at the Northeast Savings Bank, as conservator for that bank has been recommended to Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Conner.

George L. Walden, teller of the Washington Savings Bank, has been similarly recommended as conservator of that institution.

Assets to Be Transferred.

New conservators also have to be appointed for the District National Bank and the Woodridge-Langdon Commercial & Savings Bank.

Everything is in readiness for the opening at 8:30 a. m. of the newly organized Hamilton Bank and its seven branches. Approximately 100,000 depositors will have access to their funds.

Officials and employes of the various branch banks worked over the week-end to be ready for all normal banking operations.

The conservators of the unlicensed banks have transferred 50 per cent of their assets to the Hamilton National. These assets will be immediately credited to the depositors.

Maj. L. W. Shuman, who represented the Treasury Department in the merger, declared last night the reopening of the bank will be "a great stimulus to the national recovery campaign in the District."

$1,000,000 in Offsets.

Actually, Maj. Shuman said, the sum of $9,100,000 has been released by the opening of the bank. Apart from the $8,000,000, which represents 50 per cent of the total deposits, there has been $1,100,000 in offsets.

That is, if a depositor owed a note to a bank, he was credited with payment of the note and is also permitted to withdraw 50 per cent of his deposits.

Augmenting the $8,000,000 made available by the Hamilton Bank, will be $1,030,000 to be released tomorrow by the closed Commercial National Bank. This sum represents 20 per cent of the proved claims against the bank, which closed on February 28.

Cash Available.

"Adequate cash to provide for withdrawals has been distributed to the branch banks," said E. C. Graham, president of the Hamilton. "We expect some withdrawals from small depositors who have been hard pressed for cash; but we are confident of a large number of deposits.

Mexican Police Kill 3 Kidnaping Plotters

Guadalajara, Mexico, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Police today killed three bandits whom they surprised secretly planning a series of kidnapings and an armed uprising in Jalisco State.

Four other bandits were shot to death Friday night.

Federal Financial Heads at Extended Parley in White House.

President Roosevelt conferred with financial leaders of the administration at the White House last night regarding a program for further credit expansion to release funds in closed banks.

Following three hours of discussion of steps to reinforce the Nation's credit structure, departing conferees said inflation had not been considered.

"General discussion of all phases of Government finance, with no new moves in contemplation at this time," was the description of the conference given out when it ended, shortly before midnight.

Conferees Listed.

Those who conferred with the President were William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury; Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture; Jesse Jones, R. F. C. chairman; J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency; Lew Douglas, Budget Director; Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Homer F. Cummings, Attorney General.

Conferees said President Roosevelt had imposed an injunction of silence regarding details.

Secretary Wallace, who left early to deliver a radio address, said the conference centered around the administration program to release every possible dollar now "frozen" in closed banks before the first of the year.

Attorney General Cummings agreed that matters of banking and credit expansion occupied the entire time of the conferees.

Asked if there was not "anything new" afoot, the Attorney General grinned and ducked into his limousine with the observation:

Douglas Flustered.

Budget Director Douglas was the most flustered of those at the conference when asked what transpired.

"We just talked about a little of everything," he insisted, waving his brief case in circles to indicate how general the discussion had been. He said the President had enjoined him to secrecy.

Secretary Woodin went so far as to admit "everything looks hopeful."

Beyond this generality none would go.

It was understood President Roosevelt, in calling the conference, wished to obtain material for administration assurance to the Nation's banks that they may be sure of Federal support.

The law providing for insurance of bank deposits becomes effective January 1. Certain requirements must be met by banks not members of the Federal Reserve System.

Last night's conference was understood to have considered reports that some banks, in order to obtain this eligibility, are remaining too liquid and are not granting much-needed credit to industry and agriculture.

Preferable to Inflation.

The President wants to see these banks do their part toward aiding recovery, and is said to believe they can issue considerable more credit than they have to date.

An attempt to further credit expansion through use of funds now idle in such banks, rather than by means of directly inflated currency, concerns the President most at this time, it was indicated.

Tampico Again Swept by Storm

Mexico City, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—For the second time in 10 days, Tampico and its vicinity were pounded tonight by a tropical hurricane which interrupted all communications and caused fears of another disaster like that of last week which resulted in 50 deaths and enormous property damage.

At noon the office of the National Telegraph informed Mexico City the storm was sweeping across the Gulf of Mexico and would strike Tuxpan and Tampico about 4 o'clock.

At 4:30 telephone, telegraph and wireless to Mexico and cables to the United States were cut off. The Pan-American airplane from Brownsville remained at Tampico.

Fiat Money Clamor Scored By Publisher

Chicago News Head Says Wage Earners Would Suffer First.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—Warning that uncontrolled currency expansion resulted in breakdown of democratic institutions and creation of dictatorships in Europe, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, today appealed to newspapers and citizens to "rally in resisting the suicidal demand for unsecured paper currency."

"America, I believe," he said, "has supplied the only example the world has ever known of a free people in time of peace giving itself unanimously to single leadership as we have done since March 4.

Criticism Avoided.

"There has been a deliberate avoidance of criticism. All this has been done due to a trust which Roosevelt himself inspired that what is being done is not for the advantage of any one political group or any one economic class."

Col. Knox said his opposition to fiat money was based on conviction that the first to be hurt by it was the wage earner, and the first to profit were the speculators.

"Who are the people injured by issuance of fiat money?"

First Class Hit.

"First," he said, "every wage earner and every salaried man or woman, for wages and salaries never keep pace with the wildly rising prices caused by inflation. Every insurance policy holder; every savings bank depositor; every member of a building and loan association; every holder of a bond or mortgage of any kind; every endowed school, hospital, or charitable institution; every taxpayer, for the cost of Government grows by leaps and bounds in a fiat-money market.

"The President has shown every disposition to fight these radical demands. He is entitled to the support of every person who believes in the American system of Government and who is opposed to the rise in America of that type of irresponsible dictatorship which now scourges Germany."

Balloonist Injured In Forced Landing

Falls From Basket on Head as Bag is Pulled Down.

The balloon left Duesseldorf Tuesday. It was first sighted well out at sea being carried by a strong wind. As it drifted ashore a number of people caught the drag rope and helped bring the bag to rest on the putting green of a golf course.

Army Expert Taken To Aid Food Plan

Maj. Littlejohn has been fiscal representative of Army general staff almost four years, serving as a member of the budget advisory committee drafting War Department estimates.

A native of Jonesville, S. C., he was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1912. He also attended Clemson College. Littlejohn headed the Army Subsistence School in Chicago five years and was an instructor at the General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth' three years. He saw service in France during the war as commander of machine-gun battalions. He is 43 years old.

Welles Finds Cuba Becoming Calmer

the Pan-American conference in Montevideo next December. It was learned, however, that if Ambassador Sumner Welles has to stay at Havana much longer a drastic alteration of plans would be necessary. He was to have returned here to devote his time to drafting plans for the conference.

Should American troops land in Cuba, cries of "Yankee imperialism" would be raised in South America, officials fear, retarding chances for success at the conference and imperiling American trade plans.

Rebel Plans Parley.

Havana, Sept. 24 (AP).—Reports from Camaguey that a man claiming to be Juan Blas Hernandez, revolt leader, left by train for Havana to present himself to the general staff of the Grau San Martin Army, reached here tonight simultaneously with assurances that a serious food shortage in the capital would be averted.

Havana warehouse officials announced that striking workers had agreed to return tomorrow.

Conferences between supporters of President Grau San Martin and his leading opponents was adjourned tonight after an all-day secret session, conducted in "a more hopeful atmosphere." Leaders of both factions were inclined toward moderate optimism.

Reports from outside the capital indicated serious labor trouble in some sectors and considerable open though disorganized rebellion against the government.

It was learned on good authority that a bomb had been sent through the mails to Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, and that he had been warned of a plan to kidnap his daughter.

Blasted Mountain Painted by Workers

Gasoline Tax Diversion Hit In Illinois Suit

Survey Shows Highways Suffer as Funds Go to Other Items.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—Gasoline taxes, intended for highway purposes, are being diverted in increasing amounts for unemployment relief, upkeep of schools and other needs, a survey showed today.

Diversion from highway purposes, however, has not been without opposition.

An injunction suit attacking the diversion of 1 cent a gallon tax in order to retire unemployment relief bonds has been filed in Illinois. More than 2,000 farmers recently protested against diversion of the highway funds. Seven States already apply gasoline taxes toward outstanding road bonds.

Schools Get Aid.

Texas uses one of its 4 cents tax for that purpose, Florida three-sevenths of its 7-cent tax, New Hampshire 1 cent out of 4, and Idaho 1 cent out of 5. Missouri, South Carolina and Arkansas are the others.

One out of every 4 cents collected in Ohio goes into school funds. Part of the special city and county gasoline taxes in Alabama are used for operation of schools. In Louisiana the schools share 1 cent with the dock boards of New Orleans and Lake Charles.

New York State gives one of its 4-cent taxes to relief. Arizona gives 10 per cent of the total to relief, and the State of Washington 4-10 of each cent.

Taxes for Relief.

Rhode Island will use $700,000 of its $2,000,000 annual revenue from gasoline taxes to amortize $3,000,000 in relief expenditures.

Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and Mississippi use gasoline funds for general purposes.

Massachusetts sets aside one-half to assist cities and towns. Oklahoma used 40 per cent in its general fund.

Tennessee uses 1 cent out of 7 to retire general fund bonds.

Plane Crash Fatal.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 24 (AP). Stanley McInnerny, of Winnipeg, was killed and Archie McDougall, formerly of Pembina, N. Dak., was seriously injured in a plane crash in a field near Sanford, Manitoba, today. McDougall was brought to a hospital here.

"Confidence"

"California Kid" Arrested in $25,000 Race Fraud.

New York, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—George Hayden, 51, alias "The California Kid," Los Angeles, was under arrest here tonight, accused of participating in a $25,000 racing swindle against Joe Loetterle, of Lakeview, Long Island.

Police said his record shows 12 arrests in America and abroad. His only conviction was in Paris.

Holy Shroud Rites Attended By Thousands

Ceremonies of Displaying Christ's Garment Opens in Turin.

Turin, Italy, Sept. 24 (AP).—A solemn Te Deum in the Turin Cathedral with tens of thousands of devotees inside and outside the basilica, today inaugurated a three weeks' period during which the holy shroud will be displayed.

The holy shroud is the garment in which Christ's crucified body was said to have been wrapped as it came from the cross. It belongs to the Italian royal house.

Cardinal Mauriloo Fossatti, Archbishop of Turin, presided at the solemnities, which were attended by the Prince and Princess of Piedmont.

The ceremony of exposing the shroud, which can only be mended by the Italian queen and royal princess working on their knees, ended with a reading of the customary papal bull which provides excommunication for anyone daring to touch its folds.

The shroud was being exhibited as part of the holy year commemorating the 2,000th anniversary of Christ's passion and death. More than 1,000,000 persons viewed the linen in 1931, when it was displayed for the first time in 32 years.

Millions of Wool Socks Small Part of Forest Army's Needs

Order for 300,000 Men's Equipment May Include Snowshoes.

Millions of wool socks, hundreds of thousands of windbreakers and gloves—that's what the reforestation army's shopping list looks like as it prepares to take care of 300,000 men through the winter.

About 15,000 wood-burning stoves will be bought for heating winter quarters. A huge purchase of snow shoes is being discussed. A small army of carpenters will be employed to build winter camps, the men being employed in the vicinity of the camps. About 100,000,000 feet of lumber will be bought.

From four to six barracks, each holding 50 men, will be constructed at each camp, each giving employment to about 30 workmen. All camps will have electric lights, a heated bathhouse and a warm mess and recreation hall.

The program for enrolling the men in winter camps calls for a general discharge of men already in the reforestation army on September 30. This discharge will be completed by October 15. New enrollments, including men in the camps who want to reenlist, will begin October 2. A call for 75,000 new men has been issued. If more can be taken to fill vacancies, they will be called early in October.

Six Freshmen Honored At Middletown High

Winchester, Va., Sept. 24 (Spl.). Six freshmen have been raised to the degree of Green Mand by the Middletown High School Chapter, Future Farmers of America, at a special meeting. Those honored are Alfred Renner, Frank Shipe, Raymond Carper, Godfrey Shanholtz, William Dunn and Robert Brumback.

Officers were elected for the year as follows: Rolph Derflinger, president; Staige Brumback, vice president; Godfrey Shanholtz, secretary; William Stickley, treasurer; Albert Foxx, reporter, and James Shull, watch dog.

No Breakfast

So, Goering Says, He Can't Eat Children.

As Abbe prepared to photograph the grim Nazi leader, he suggested smilingly that unless Goering relaxed his features, Americans might think he "eats babies for breakfast."

"That is not possible," he quoted Goering as replying. "I never eat breakfast."

Hunger Strike Of Communist Prisoner Ends

Hays Offers All Evidence in Reichstag Fire Trial Defense.

Leipzig, Sept. 24 (AP).—Marinus Van Der Lubbe was reported by his attorney to be recovered today from the effects of a three-day hunger strike he began when put on trial with four others charged with setting fire to the German Reichstag.

He took food yesterday evening and ate normally today.

Arthur Garfield Hays, U. S. Attorney, who took part in an international legal investigation at London last week into the cause of the blaze, revealed that at a conference with Defense Attorney Alfons Sack the latter promised to treat in confidence any evidence he submitted.

He said he welcomed an offer of the German attorney to put him on the witness stand, but that both sides agreed it would be best for Sack himself to produce the evidence which Hays, as a witness, could only report at second hand.

Herr Sack said there was nothing to prevent the son of Ernest Torgler, one of the accused Communists, from coming from London to repeat his testimony. No harm would come to him, he promised.

The two lawyers later will discuss requesting the court for safe conducts for certain other witnesses.

Car Upsets on Last Lap Of Race; 1 Dead, 2 Hurt

Coatesville, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—One youth was killed and two injured, one seriously, today after their automobile upset at Coatesville Airport on the last lap of a 10-mile race for old cars valued at less than $25.

Lloyd Watterson, 18, Dowingtown, driver, was killed. John Dickinson, 19, Thorndale, suffered internal injuries, and Samuel Marsh, 17, Downingtown, received a sprained shoulder.

Aid to Hitler Raps War Talk

Germany Insists on Peace, Propaganda Minister Says in Speech.

Ruedesheim, Germany, Sept. 24 (AP).—Just prior to taking a plane for Geneva to attend League of Nations and disarmament sessions, Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda in the Hitler government, told a crowd here that "I believe the world looks upon our nation-welding process askance."

"The world always distrusts that Germany is getting stronger," he said. "The power of nations, however, lies not in armaments but in the will to live. It is the pacifist nations which always prepare for the next war."

Goebbels addressed a "work and peace" meeting at the gigantic Niederwald Monument.

"We shall not tire of telling the world that Germany wants peace and must have peace, that no nation can gain anything by another war and that it would be madness to plunge into fresh disaster while not yet recovered from the last one," he said.

Luer Kidnaping Trial Enters Third Week

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 24 (AP). The trial of five men and a woman for kidnaping August Luer, 77-year-old Alton banker, will go into its third week here tomorrow.

Only one defendant, Randol Eugene Norvel, has taken the stand. His testimony probably will consume a part of tomorrow's session.

Wage Increase Reported for Same Period.

(Associated Press.)

Increased employment and wage payments from July to August were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board, with an accompanying statement that the general level of industrial production declined in August and early September.

"Increases in employment between the middle of July and the middle of August, the latest date for which figures are available, were general in most lines of industry," the board said, "and there were numerous increases in wage dates and reductions in working hours."

Hull Studies British Plea For Debt Cut

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hull is making a study of British war debts in preparation for hearing the British plea for revision, which President Roosevelt will open October 5. He will determine what Governmental official will handle the negotiations.

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that all decisions will be made by him personally, but it will not be possible for the President or Hull to attend all the hearings.

In his study Secretary Hull will make a review of pleas for revision presented last December and the notes exchanged last June when Great Britain made a token payment of $10,000,000 on the installment of $75,950,000 due.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the British government, who will direct the negotiations for the British; Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to Washington, and T. K. Bewley, British treasury expert, are expected by the British Embassy to arrive from England by October 3.

The payment due from Great Britain on December 15 totals $117,670,765.

During his campaign Mr. Roosevelt said he would only favor alteration or reduction of intergovernmental debts in exchange for concessions which would benefit American agriculture and industry.

Repeal Threatens Chaos in District

about adequate liquor control legislation will have only just begun.

It is Senator King's intention to hold—at some date now vaguely described as "possibly towards the end of next month"—public hearings at which the plan proposed by the district commissioners, and any other plans put forward, may be discussed.

Senator King anticipates the public hearings may be lengthy. Present will be representatives of wet and dry organizations, reform leagues, hotel and restaurant men's associations, civic groups, chain drug stores, the liquor interests, the small fry—a vast hodge-podge of conflicting interests certain to spread Babelian confusion over the proceedings.

But just as the corporation counsel, the district commissioners and Senator King appear unconcerned by the rapid onrush of the repeal movement, so are those most vitally concerned, through civic or selfish interests, in the return of liquor indifferent to the pressing need for action.

Drys Fail to Act.

What, for instance, are Washington's drys doing to prepare to meet the doom of their 16 years reign?

Not all, admittedly, adopt the attitude of Canon William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation. Says Canon Chase:

"I do not believe repeal is coming. Therefore, I am quite naturally doing nothing about it. Good day."

Other dry leaders confess they, too, are "doing nothing about it."

Attorney Wilson, speaking for the local Antisaloon League, states no meeting of his organization has been called to consider the question of a wet Washington.

"A meeting may be called, possibly next month," he said yesterday.

As for the committee of 100, ardent prosecutor of Capital bootleggers, this group likewise has given no consideration to the impending problem.

"The question has not been taken up, but will be, shortly," said Dr. Everett M. Ellison, president of the committee.

On the other hand, those who will profit from the return of intoxicating beverages have given the matter no organized attention. Arthur J. Harnett, manager of the Powhatan Hotel and president of the Washington Hotel Men's Association, said that organization would start discussion of the question next month.

Restaurant Men Slow.

Washington restaurant men are equally slow to grasp the fact that while it is but a short time before the thirty-sixth "Aye" will resound, it is a far and many-tongued cry to adequate, satisfactory liquor control.

As for the prospective consumers, they have as yet but two representatives.

Rufus S. Lusk, vice executive commander of the Crusaders for the past two years, has proposed a plan, the essence of which is to "take the profit out of the liquor traffic."

D. G. Johanson, an employe of the Treasury Department, has left with Senator King a copy of a plan he submitted in a newspaper contest in 1929.

All Quiet on Potomac.

Aside from the communications of Lusk and Johanson, there has been nothing to remind either Bride or the chairman of the Senate District Committee that something—all too shortly—must be done about the liquor situation.

Senator King's only comment has been that he will hold public hearings in a month or so.

Bride, occupied with other affairs and entrenched behind his opinion the Volstead act will remain effective here, admits seeing no need for haste.

"I am getting reports on what other States are doing," he said. "I will study these, and also the Wickersham report.

"Afterward, I will make my recommendations to the District Commissioners, who will forward them to Senator King."

Meanwhile, Washington, looking back upon its 326 saloons of pre-prohibition days, and forward to the imminent repeal of the eighteenth amendment, wonders if the time for prompt action hasn't arrived.

Johnson Seeks Price Solution In Retail Codes

Believes NRA Drive to Speed Buying Will Hinge on Issue.

With NRA's drive to step-up consumption tentatively scheduled to start October 1, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson was to seek a basis today for agreement on the controversial price-regulating provisions in the master retail and retail drug codes.

The immediate problem facing the recovery administrator is solution of the price-regulation fight. He is convinced this must be settled before the huge buying drive can be launched.

Officials indicated Johnson hopes to have the retail codes promulgated by October 1.

Johnson has intimated he wants the codes completed when the drive opens, and will tie the campaign in with the President's credit expansion plans.

Druggists Fight Move.

The price-regulating features—designed to prevent indiscriminate price-cutting—were attacked last night by counsel for large retail drug groups as a "conscienceless attempt by selfish interests to gouge several hundred million dollars a year out of consumers."

"This is particularly the fight of the wage earner and the farmer," said Myron M. Cohen, Washington attorney, representing the Associated Retail Druggists of America, the National Independent Pharmacists, Inc., and the Katz Drug Co., Kansas City.

He urged consumers to join in the fight.

Johnson Hides Views.

Johnson has given no indication of his attitude toward the provisions which fix limits below which merchandise may not be sold. President Roosevelt was said to be ready to slash such provisions. Support for the features was being rallied, however.

President Roosevelt's plan for credit expansion also were criticized yesterday by Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota.

"Billions to be loaned to bankers at 2 per cent is a confession in itself that the NRA boom is busted," he said. "Only by hanging up the biggest subsidy known to history can the patriotism of the beneficiaries be stimulated to the point of signing the rest of the codes."

Jews Will Elect World Delegates

Vote in United States Set for Next Year.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The national executive committee of the American Jewish Congress today voted to set in motion machinery to hold national elections in the United States for delegates to the World Jewish Congress, scheduled for March, 1934.

The decision was reached after a report of the situation in Germany by Dr. Stephen A. Wise, honorary president of the American Jewish Congress.

Dr. Wise said the situation in Germany and its repercussions on world Jewry are the "gravest in history" and called for international action to change the situation.

Entombed Miners Saved From Death

Rescue Crews Find Three After Eight Hours.

Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—After working in relays for eight hours, rescue crews last night succeeded in removing three men who were entombed in a mine of the Glen Alden Coal Co., 6 miles south of Hazelton.

The men, Edward Kozloski, Joseph Sentawany and George Christina, were trapped in a gangway yesterday by the collapse of a pillar.

Rescued from a cave-in in an abandoned mine near Tamaqua, Charles Deer, 30, and Harold Applegate, 28, were recovering in a Coaldale hospital.

Wallace Declares Against Inflation

Two Courses Open.

"From a long-time point of view, we know we must either restore world trade or else permanently take out of use the 40,000,000 surplus acres planted during the wartime boom.

"As things are now, those 40,000,000 acres breed nothing but confusion, poverty and waste. As long as we remain a creditor nation, with high-tariff policies, refusing to accept foreign goods in payment, those acres should not be tilled.

"Until our people have the vision to adopt a long-time world trading policy in keeping with our position as creditors, we must engage in the delicate processes of adjusting basic production downward.

"Piling up a wheat surplus to three times the normal, as we have done in the past four years, makes more hungry mouths rather than less. It took the wheat farmer off the market as a buyer of goods and depression spread to all other farmers; then to those whose business depends directly upon farm custom, and finally to Wall street and the Loop."

Delay Feared In Newspaper NRA Code Pact

Publishers and Labor to Meet First Week Next Month.

(Associated Press.)

The NRA expects it will be the first week in October before organized labor and publishers can meet to work out a recovery code for daily newspapers.

This week Dr. Lindsay Rogers, deputy administrator handling the code, may talk with Elisha Hanson, counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Rogers is trying to work out a code for the 21 other branches of the commercial printing industry.

He set the first week in October as the probable time for the newspaper conferences because he has to be back in New York then to resume lecturing at Columbia University, where he is professor of public law.

He will try to get Hanson to take out of the code the section allowing employers to deal with employes without outside interference as an "interpretation" of the national recovery act. President Roosevelt has prohibited further "interpretations" of the collective bargaining feature of the act.

Rogers also will learn what concession Hanson is willing to make on the code section permitting newspapers to employ children under 16 for delivery jobs.

There has been no indication that the publishers, willingly, will yield on either point.

Three Tie for Lead In Chess Tourney

Two Equal Reuben Fine, Champion, in Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 24 (AP).—Reuben Fine, of New York, defending champion, assumed the lead in the annual tournament for the championship of the Western Chess Association today when he defeated E. Michelsen, of Detroit, in 30 moves for his second consecutive victory.

Fine did not long enjoy the lead, for he was tied by R. William, of New York, when the latter outplayed Samuel Factor, of Chicago, in 29 moves.

A triple tie developed when A. W. Dake, of Portland, Oreg., scored against M. Palmer, of Detroit, in 41.

Old-Time Coach Maker Of Baltimore, 86, Dies

Baltimore, Sept. 24 (AP).—August Gross, 86, last of the famous coach makers, who in the nineteenth century built Baltimore's tallyhos, jager wagons, hacks and pleasure carriages, died today at a hospital here.

He came here in 1859.

Former Pastors to Take Part in Celebration Continuing Week.

Sixteen Charter Members Are Still on Rolls After 21 Years.

The "Little Brown Church," Connecticut avenue and Shepherd street, Chevy Chase, has reached its twenty-first birthday anniversary.

Founded Sunday, September 8, 1912, the Chevy Chase Methodist Episcopal Church is celebrating with special services which began Thursday with laymen's night, and will close next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with a worship service at which Dr. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, will preach.

Yesterday's service was conducted by Dr. John Reid Shannon, former pastor of Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. Tuesday evening will be ministers' night, featuring addresses at 8 o'clock by former pastors and by district superintendents. A reception to them and their wives will follow.

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of Epiphany Church and chaplain of the Senate, will have charge of the devotional service Thursday at 8 p. m.

During the 21 years, the church has had five pastors: Dr. Lucien Clark (1912-20), who served eight years without accepting a cent in return; the Rev. J. Luther Neff (1920-24), now pastor of First Methodist Episcopal Church, Frostburg, Md.; Dr. Alpheus S. Mowbray (1924-26), now living in retirement in Washington; the Rev. J. Turnbull Spicknall (1926-32), now pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Catonsville, Md., and the present minister, the Rev. Edward G. Latch, who has served since June 13, 1932.

Sixteen charter members still belong to the church: Miss Alice Clark, Mrs. Orelia Courtney, Mrs. John L. Preston, William L. Orem, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Troth, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Troth, Frank Troth, Miss Mabel Troth, Miss Lydia Troth, and Mrs. Frederick Van Dyne.

MarinesBoardShip; Await Cuba Orders

The New Mexico Anchored at Hampton Roads.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 24 (AP).—A detachment of 75 Marines arrived at the Norfolk naval base today and boarded the battleship New Mexico, anchored in Hampton Roads. The men complete the vessel's complement of Marines.

Reports the ship would sail tomorrow for Cuba with 500 Marines were denied at the base. It was said the ship had not received any sailing orders as yet.

League Faces Crisis Through World Unrest

Delegates to Assembly See Danger in Arms, Trade Problems.

Geneva, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Faced by problems which appear to many as insurmountable, the fourteenth assembly of the League of Nations meets tomorrow after a year which marked three major league failures.

The delegates, gathering tonight, freely admitted the league is passing through an acute and dangerous crisis as a result of such disappointing developments as the Sino-Japanese conflict, failure of the disarmament conference to reach salutary agreements, and the result of the world economic and monetary conference.

Foremost in the minds of the delegates was the German question. Great interest also was centured about the personality of Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss, of Austria, who was received by a cheering throng. He got down to business at once, conferring with Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, on the British attitude toward German armament claims.

Later, in a statement to the press, Dollfuss said Austria will "take a purely defensive attitude on the German question and does not intend to bring up the German-Jewish question."

Norman H. Davis, the American delegate to Geneva, arrived with the French foreign minister, Joseph Paul-Boncour. Davis said that optimism over the present session of the assembly is growing as a result of recent conferences in Paris.

Chaco Delay Granted.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 24 (U.P.). The League of Nations, it was reported reliably today, has extended until September 30 the time limit for Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru to make a final decision on whether they will assume the League mandate to settle the Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Sugar Quota Plan Proposed

Administration Speeds Pact as Harvest Season Nears.

(Associated Press.)

An arrangement through which President Roosevelt might raise or lower the Cuban quota in the sugar stabilization code may lead to announcement soon that the pact has been accepted.

Lacking official representation from the island in drafting the latest sugar agreement, administration officials hope the plan will make it acceptable, regardless of the government which finally holds power in Cuba.

The Chief Executive and the State Department have been sympathetic to the Cuban claim that the 1930 tariff imposed on sugar from the island is a prime cause of political confusion there.

Domestic and territorial interests express confidence an agreement is approaching. It is imperative the pact be announced soon, since further delays probably would caue the entire arrangement to be abandoned.

Also the sugar season is at hand, and two or three weeks more would mean such confusion, it would be difficult to put the sugar pact into effect for this year.

The plan would be retroactive to July 1 and would continue in effect three years. The quotas assigned to other groups, in addition to Cuba and the Philippines, now are: Hawaii, 975,000 tons; Virgin Island, 9,080; Puerto Rico, 875,000; Louisiana, 250,000; Florida, 60,000, and domestic beet sugar areas, 1,750,000 tons.

New York Jurist Dies.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Adelbert P. Rich, member appellate division, Supreme Court, second department, until his retirement, December 31, 1930, died tonight at his home in Cato following four weeks' illness. He was 73 years old.

Justice Rich was admitted to the bar in 1882. He became a special county judge in 1883 and was elected a justice of the Supreme Court in 1900.

James A. Faris, Plant Disease Expert, Dies

Government Pathologist Won International Reputation.

Dr. James A. Faris, Government pathologist of international reputation, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital. He was senior pathologist in the division of cereal crops and diseases, Bureau of Plant Industry.

A native of Tarkio, Mo., Dr. Faris graduated from the University of Missouri in 1916 and received his master's degree at the University of Nebraska. Columbia University bestowed the Ph.D. upon him.

He did research work in Brooklyn, N. Y., and for the Dominican government between 1920 and 1921. From 1924 to 1931 he was chief pathologist of the Baragua Experiment Station in Cuba. His work during those years on the culture of sugar cane won international recognition.

Dr. Faris returned to the United States two years ago to join the Department of Agriculture, where he led the Nation-wide fight against smut diseases of cereal crops. Numerous discoveries in the field of plant pathology were credited to him.

Early in his career he was principal of Central High School in St. Joseph, Mo.; professor of botany and biology at Stephens Junior College, Missouri, and professor at City Junior College, Nebraska.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Phoebe O'Neall Faris; his father, three brothers and three sisters. He lived at 3133 Connecticut avenue.

Funeral services will be held at 5 p. m. today at the Mines establishment, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Interment will be at Tarkio, Mo.

McKee's Backers Work on Ticket

Candidates to Run With Him Being Chosen.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Leaders of the independent Democratic movement to place Joseph V. McKee in the mayoralty race began consideration tonight of prospective running mates, in the hope the former acting mayor would consent to become a candidate.

Indications were that persons already on either the Democratic or Fusion ticket would be indorsed, rather than entering a new slate.

Postmaster General Farley returned to Washington today without making any announcement of what part, if any, he would take in the contest.

American Pastor In Paris Resigns

Church Head There Since 1923 Wants to Rest.

Paris, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Rev. Joseph Wilson Cochran, jr., 66, resigned today as pastor of the American Church, the oldest American institution in Europe.

Dr. Cochran came to Paris in 1923 and built a new church, occupying the pulpit ever since. He raised $860,000, of which only $1,000 remains unpaid. He said he desired a rest.

Dr. Cochran, born in Peoria, Ill., has held Presbyterian pastorates in Madison, Wis.; Philadelphia and Detroit.

Child Labor Asks Higher Indemnity

Accident Compensation Is Too Low, Report Says.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Adequate compensation for minors in industrial accident cases was asked in a national child labor committee report based on a study conducted in Tennessee, Wisconsin and Illinois made public today.

The report, submitted by Charles E. Gibbons, said the NRA has removed "many children" from industry, but that the number of workers between 16 and 18 years of age is "still well over a million."

"In fact," the report said, "their number may be increasing in certain industries where the codes permit a lower wage rate for junior employes."

Public Work Speed Plan Being Sought

Only Small Part of Fund Allotted Spent.

(Associated Press.)

Approaching the half-way mark in the allotment of money from the $3,300,000,000 public works fund, the administration last night was seeking means of speeding local spending of the funds so far assigned.

To date the public works administration has allotted approximately $1,600,000,000, but only $39,139,756 of this has been drawn from the Treasury for actual spending in the campaign to transfer unemployed from relief to pay rolls and increase purchasing power.

Du Pont's Sailplane Hop Cut Short in Virginia

Luray, Va., Sept. 24 (AP).—Richard du Pont failed today in another attempt to break the world distance record for sailplanes when adverse wind conditions forced him to land after a short flight.

He launched his ship at Big Meadows on Skyline Drive in the Shenandoah National Park area and after spending an hour vainly trying to gain altitude, he landed in a field at Marksville, 9 miles south of here.

Rattigan Rites Set for Today At St. Gabriel's

Leader Among Catholic Laity to Be Buried at Providence.

Funeral services for Michael Rattigan, one of the leading Catholic laymen of Washington, who died of a heart attack at his home Friday, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning in St. Gabriel's Church.

Rattigan resided at 436 Crittenden street northwest. For a number of years he was associated with First Assistant Postmaster General O'Mahoney in the law firm of O'Mahoney & Rattigan, and the firm continued under its established name after O'Mahoney's appointment by Postmaster General Farley.

A native of Providence, R. I., Rattigan had resided here about 25 years. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Order of St. Francis, and a graduate of LaSalle University and Georgetown Law College.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Caroline Rattigan, and two children, Eleanor and Joseph.

The body will be taken to Providence for burial.

Colleagues Named For Hornor Rites

(Associated Press.)

A delegation of four was named yesterday to represent the Senate and House at the funeral services today of Representative Lynn S. Hornor, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Representative Hornor died here Saturday at the home of his brother-in-law, Col. Henry Jewett, at the Army War College. The body, accompanied by Mrs. Hornor, left here yesterday for Clarksburg.

Representatives Joe L. Smith, of Beckley, W. Va., and Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, represent the House, and Senators Hatfield and Neely were named to represent the Senate.

Michigan Normal School Head Dies

Ypsilanti, Mich., Sept. 24 (AP). Dr. Charles McKenny, 73, president emeritus of Michigan State Normal College, died today following a long illness that necessitated his retirement from the active presidency last May.

He was president of Wisconsin State Normal College at Milwaukee from 1900 to 1912. He served as president of Michigan State Normal from July 1, 1912, until the close of the last school year.

Dr. McKenny had served as president of the National Society for the study of education and the Association of American Teachers Colleges and as editor of the American Schoolmasters Magazine.

Horace Liveright, Publisher, Dies

Liveright, also known as a theatrical producer and critic, was the founder of the Boni-Liveright Co.

He was born in Osceolia Mills, Pa., the son of Henry and Henrietta Fleisher Liveright. He was educated in Philadelphia schools.

He married Miss Lucile Elsas, of New York, in 1911. They had two children, Herman and Lucy.

Chicago Bandits Stab Visitor, 72, to Get $5

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—Daniel Lentz, 72, a visitor from Logansport, Ind., wandered around in a daze for seven blocks today after a battle with two holdup men who stabbed him repeatedly with a penknife for his $5.

Lentz finally found the home of his son-in-law, Dawes McGill, but was so weak from shock and loss of blood physicians thought he might die.

John McCormack Back From Visit to Europe

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—John McCormack, the Irish tenor, arrived here today from Europe where he sang "Ave Maria" at the wedding two weeks ago of his only daughter, Gwendolyn.

Mrs. McCormack returned with him. He said his daughter received bushels of congratulatory cables from America.

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Charles E. Baldwin, of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, disclosed yesterday that 1926 was chosen as a base for the wholesale price index because conditions then were at an even keel.

"You see," Dr. Baldwin explained, "this bureau had taken 1913 as a retail price base because cost of living statistics were started during the war, and it was felt comparisons should be with a before-the-war year as more normal.

"But by the time the wholesale price statistics were begun, business people had begun to feel 1913 would never be normal again. They wanted a post-war base instead of a prewar base, and 1926 was thought fairly typical."

Staunch were the headlines supported by the 1926 commodity price level: "Butter and egg prices are firm;" "cotton is steady;" "business men's survey reveals prosperity."

The American people were paying 61 per cent more for food, 66 per cent more for clothing, 64 per cent more for rent, 88 per cent more for fuel and light and 100 per cent more for house furnishings than they did "before the war" in 1913.

Sirloin steak, in the fall of 1926, was 47.2 cents a pound in Washington; 38.4 in Omaha, and 31.4 in San Francisco. Milk was 14 cents a quart in Washington and San Francisco, 11.3 in Omaha. Midwest butter was 50.5 cents a pound; on the West Coast, 55.2; in the Capital, 57.8. Strictly fresh eggs sold at 62.8 cents a dozen in Washington, 45.6 in Omaha. Bread was 10.3 cents a pound in Omaha; 9.8 in San Francisco, and 8.8 in Washington.

Bolstered by such sturdy food, the populace was buying $85 to $300 phonographs; $298 overstuffed living room suites, and $125 to $595 hall clocks on the easy payment plan.

Quite a difference from present prices. Last June living costs were but 28 per cent above the 1913 level—whereas in 1926 they were 75 per cent above.

Blaze in Pig Pen Turns Plant Into Big Barbecue

Baltimore, Sept. 24 (AP).—Pungent odors of a gigantic barbecue today drew 5,000 people to fire which swept a large portion of the Sellmayer Pork Packing Co.'s plant in East Baltimore.

Byrd Advance Sails at Dawn On 2-Year Trip

Explorer Will Follow With Speedier Flagship Within Week.

Boston, Sept. 24 (AP).—The ice-scarred whaler, Bear of Oakland, main contact of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd with Little America, will start at dawn for the South pole.

Last-minute preparations filled the day. Foodstuffs and scientific equipment were placed into holds and the crew and scientists were assigned to quarters. They will be gone two years.

The Barkentine will be commanded by Terrence Keough, young New York skipper, who spent four years of his nautical career as captain of the old Atlantis, Oceanographic ship.

Final clearance papers were issued yesterday. At the same time the name of the Byrd flagship, the Pacific Fir, was officially changed to the Jacob Ruppert, in honor of Col. Jacob Ruppert, New York, one of the principal sponsors.

Admiral Byrd disclosed he would leave Boston on the Jacob Ruppert in about a week. The faster steamer will overtake the Bear long before the New Zealand ship's base is reached, he said.

Eight Arctic huskies were placed aboard the Bear tonight, much to the concern of Snowshoes, the ship's mascot kitten.

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)

By Morgan Baker

THE better the vacation, the harder it is to return to work. Six persons in The Washington Post's popularity contest party found it difficult last night to leave the luxurious Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach and return to their respective offices.

BAKER.

The group that left Friday and who returned to work this morning included Miss Janet Stevens, Agriculture, and William E. Mitchell, Veterans' Administration, contest winners; Mrs. Guy Carlon, companion of Miss Stevens; Mr. and Mrs. F. Edward Mitchell, parents of Mr. Mitchell, and Miss Anna Mitchell, his sister.

On the smooth cruise down the Potomac and over Hampton Roads Friday the party enjoyed two delicious meals, bridge and a night of sound sleep induced by the steamer's purring glide. Saturday was a perfect day of Indian summer at Virginia Beach. Bathing suits were quickly donned and after a preliminary plunge in the Cavalier indoor pool, the party adjourned to the surf, where they found the Gulf Stream is still monarch over tidal temperatures.

After a morning on the beach, a hearty lunch was enjoyed on the terrace. Instead of napping after lunch, as your scribe did, the party launched into a rough scrimmage of—croquet.

Later the party split. Some went riding on the Cavalier's thoroughbreds and others went back to the surf. They returned just in time to dress for dinner.

After dinner and a couple of rubbers of bridge, attention was turned to dancing. And so, late to bed.

Virtually the same schedule was followed yesterday, except Mr. Mitchell and his father went fishing. If any one wants an account of the fish caught on that trip and those that got away, kindly send $2 in stamps, with a self-addressed envelope 10 by 12 inches, to the Federal Diary and we will send a complete story, with snapshots.

Just as Junior looks at the calendar on December 26 to count the days to Christmas, members of this group are looking forward to another trip down the bay next summer.

HAYES is a good name. A president bore it years ago. However, by a series of "I do's" Miss Elizabeth B. Hayes, Library of Congress, gave up that part and became Mrs. Edwin Brenton last week. Miss Anne Snure, also of Library of Congress, attended Miss Hayes while the Rev. J. Phelps Hand, pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, officially made the change. The idea of it all is said to have started months ago when Mr. Brenton was with the Library of Congress.

Dearborn NRA Asks Ford Aid On Complaints

Compliance Board Wants Manufacturer, Workers Represented.

Detroit, Sept. 24 (AP).—The NRA board of Dearborn, home of Ford Motor Co., remains hopeful that Henry Ford and his employes will be represented on a compliance board, to consider complaints against the company.

William L. Mills, publicity chairman for the Dearborn NRA, said today that when a compliance board is named tomorrow the committee will hear reports from efforts to secure Ford representation.

Whether the hoped-for representation is accomplished, Mills indicated, the Dearborn NRA committee, of which Ford is an honorary member, will proceed with Ford and the NRA to a head.

The procedure, he pointed out, would be to consider complaints, and, if an adjustment could not be arrived at locally, refer the matter to the Detroit bureau of the Department of Commerce. If no agreement could be reached there, it would go to Washington.

Ford officials did not comment.

Miss Myles Feted At Dinner in Club

J. M. Griffin and 10 Honor "Most Popular Lady."

Miss Julia M. Myles, winner of first place as "most popular lady" in The Post's Federal Diary contest, was feted at a dinner at Indian Spring Golf Club, with J. M. Griffin as host.

Ten other guests were present: Misses Ruby B. Martin, Edith R George, Geraldine Frost and Pearl Hagan; Mrs. Allen Parker and Thomas J. Murray, James F. Fox, Fred W. George, C. W. Witherow and Dr. Raymond Gwynn.

Reversal

Texas Woman Lists NRA Rules for Wives.

Beaumont, Tex., Sept. 24 (AP). Hearing nothing about a 40-hour week for housewives, a homemaker of Nederland, Tex., has proposed a code of her own.

B. B. Johnson, county judge, has received her letter, signed "Mrs. L. T. P.," and suggesting its consideration by President Roosevelt. The code follows:

Every housewife shall be taken out to dinner at least once a week.

Husband or some other member of the family shall dry all the supper dishes.

Every housewife is entitled to a minimum of two movies weekly.

Husband shall help children with at least half of home work.

Every housewife is entitled to 10 per cent of family pay check, for personal expenditures on self for clothes, cosmetics, &c.

Every housewife is entitled to sleep at least two mornings weekly.

Bandit Army Nears Peiping

Occupies Town 35 Miles From Capital Seeking to Join Chen-Wu.

Peiping, Sept. 24 (AP).—Several thousand bandits under Gen. (Old Rat) Lao Hao-Tze were reported today to have occupied San Ho, 35 miles east of Peiping. Their object was reported to be to unite with Gen. Fang Chen-Wu's army of irregulars and attack Peiping. They called themselves "the Allied Army of Eastern Asia."

Japanese sources stated Fang Shen-Wu's army included the forces of Tang Yu-Lin, former governor of Jehol, who fled when the Japanese occupied that province. It was said the renegade forces totaled 65,000 men, but Chinese set the total at 2,500.

As the Japanese were not permitting Chinese to send troops into the demilitarized zone, the Chinese dispatched additional police in an attempt to dispense the invaders. Three hundred Japanese soldiers were reported sent to Miyun, to deal with bandit forces in that region.

Suspected Attacker Of Woman Lynched

Mob Takes Colored Victim From Home; Shoots Him.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sept. 24 (AP). Dennis Cross, colored, under bond on charges preferred by a young white woman, was shot to death here today after being taken from his home by a group of men posing as officers.

Sheriff R. L. Shamblin said he was told a group called at Cross' home about 2 a. m., and told him he would have to go to the sheriff's office and make a bigger bond.

After daylight, his body, bearing three bullet wounds, was found near the Tuscaloosa Country Club.

Baruch Upset By Roosevelt Snub, Claim

Magazine Says Financier Has No Part in New Administration.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The current issue of the magazine Fortune answers "no" to the "national query: Is this a Baruch administration?"

Describing George N. Peek, Agricultural Administrator, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson NRA administrator, as "Baruch men of long standing," the magazine says "half of the legend that this is a Baruch administration" is based on the presence of these two men in high offices.

Baruch, the magazine says, "flatly denies he suggested either man to the President. "Roosevelt never asked me anything," he remarks a bit acidly. "He didn't even ask about Johnson. He just took him."

"Baruch Man" Defined.

The expression "Baruch man" is defined "as a gentleman of importance who worked under Baruch during his chairmanship of the War Industries Board and who has kept up the association since then."

This "inner circle," say Fortune, "has certain ideas in common. They all believe that the farmer's plight is at the root of the depression and that prosperity is impossible until the farmer's income has been raised. They tend also to be isolationists who believe the United States can and should become economically independent of the rest of the world.

Of Baruch and the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the magazine says:

"Baruch refused no office in the administration because he was offered none. * * *

Wanted to Be Asked.

"When he was offered no Cabinet post, he was upset and suspicious. He probably wouldn't have accepted, but he wanted to be asked. And when Roosevelt in dealing with the railroad problem ignored suggestions of the National Transportation Committee, whose acting Chairman Baruch had become after Coolidge's death, Baruch finally understood Roosevelt's determination to go his own way."

The magazine states that between Baruch and the President, "There has been no open break. Some day, if NRA breaks down and Roosevelt gets into a real jam, he may turn to Baruch, as Wilson did. And Baruch will respond at once with his best thought on the problem. He is not petty about such things."

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A STEEPLEJACK

HIGH UP, SEVENTY STORIES above the street, where the slightest slip means certain death—here, if ever, nerves must be healthy. Listen to James J. Dwyer, famous steeplejack shown in these two pictures, "Worry? Not me. Of course I'm a smoker—and I smoke a lot. But I smoke Camels and my nerves are OK."

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? Does it upset you to see someone in a dangerous position? Put yourself in that place—then consider your nerves. But remember, no matter how many you smoke, Camel's costlier tobaccos never upset your nerves.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

NOT MANY OF US have the iron nerves necessary to be a New York steeplejack. But we can all take a tip from these dare-devils whose very lives depend on healthy nerves.

As James J. Dwyer tells it: "I've been climbing for years and smoking cigarettes even longer. I picked Camels because they're milder. And when I say milder I mean that no matter how many I smoke they never get on my nerves. What do I think about up there in the air? Not much of anything. Worry? Not me, I smoke Camels—and my nerves are OK."

You'll like Camels, too. Their costlier tobaccos certainly make a difference. In taste. In mildness. And they never get on your nerves.

Cotton Prices Close Week in 10-Cent Range

December Sells at 10.19 as Compared With 9.74 for Prior Period.

(Associated Press.)

Spot cotton closed the week within sight of 10 cents a pound at New Orleans and futures, spurting up more than $3.50 a bale at one time, carried the December contract at New York to 10.19 cents a pound, compared with 9.74 a week ago and a September low of 8.88 cents.

Ordinarily the market might have been expected to decline on Census Bureau reports that almost half a million bales more cotton had been ginned to date than a year ago.

The added stocks, however, were offset by credit and currency developments which apparently were of much more concern to the trade than the supply and demand situation.

Credit Plan Aids.

Week-end assurance of a giant credit expansion program designed to unlock $2,000,000,000 of frozen deposits by Government purchase of preferred bank stocks together with A. A. A. plans to lend 10 cents a pound on cotton held by farmers who agree to 1934 acreage reduction put an end to uncertainties which had kept the market violently erratic.

Sharp price advances on Monday and Tuesday had been lost on Wednesday and at the close on Friday values were only about ¼ cent better than the week before.

The average price of middling ⅞ inch, which had climbed from 9.25 cents a pound to 9.61 on Wednesday, fell back to 9.39 on Friday.

After announcement of the administration's indirect inflation policy and the 10-cent cotton loan plan, New Orleans quoted 9.91 cents for Saturday spots—an advance of $1.55 a bale.

Although it was apparent Government loans would be made only to those farmers who agreed to cut their cotton acreage to figures in line with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's idea of 25,000,000 acres for 1934.

Some sources were ready to predict a minimum price of 10 cents a pound on the farm. Trade reports from Texas points said "everybody" was talking 15-cent cotton and that the asking basis was holding very firm.

Buying Orders Increased.

Buying orders reached the futures market from all directions, the higher prices bringing in heavy realizing and considerable Southern pressure whch caused reactions although purchases continued active.

Among miscellaneous lines of consumers' goods, furniture manufacturers were reporting continuing operations close to capacity, and some pickup was noted in cotton textiles after the lull of recent weeks, with the week's sales of print cloths estimated at about three weeks' production. Shoe manufacturers, however, have largely completed their fall lines, and are showing some seasonal recession of activity.

The movement of freight for the week ended September 16 was reported at 652,016 cars, a jump of 80,629 from the level of the Labor Day holiday week, and 64,770 cars above the corresponding period of a year ago, although 86,013 under two years ago. Electric power production showed a gain of 12.7 per cent over a year ago, against 11.1 per cent for the previous week.

Science Sees End For Stale Bread

Old Expensive Problem of Bakers Now Studied.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—Scientists have tackled the problem of stale bread and cake, the despair of the frugal housewife and a heavy cost to the baking industry, and bid fair to solve it, Prof. J. R. Katz, of the University of Amsterdam, Holland, told alumni at the reunion of the Sibel Institute of Technology tonight.

"Staling will be reduced to a minimum," he said, "when we succeed in arriving at the proper proportion of water for each type of starch.

"It is my belief that it will be accomplished within five years."

Army to Purchase Next Forest Kits

General Who Protested Price to Buy 150,000.

(Associated Press.)

The Army's quartermaster general, John L. De Witt, who criticized the price paid by the Civilian Conservation Corps for toilet kits a few months ago, has been given the job of purchasing new forest corps' kits.

Bids on 150,000 kits have been advertised through the New York quartermaster depot.

De Witt told a Senate committee that the price paid by Robert Fechner, camp director, was too high. The committee recommended future purchases be made through the Army.

Operating Costs Gain in Baltimore

Per Capita Expense $42.72 in 1932, Rise of $2.06.

(Associated Press.)

The per capita cost of operating the general departments of the City of Baltimore for 1932 was $42.72, as compared with $40.66 the previous year and $18.49 in 1917.

These figures appear in a summary of the financial statistics for Baltimore, compiled by W. S. Hanna, of the Census Bureau, and made public yesterday.

The bureau held the 1932 increase was due chiefly to additional relief expenditures.

Limitation of Objection to Currency Issues Overlooks Real Danger Here

By Ralph West Robey.

Current financial discussion in this country still reflects a belief that "inflation" is perfectly safe if it does not take the form of having the Government start the printing presses.

Thus, the demands of cotton growers last week that the administration abandon a large part of its present program and issue greenbacks was met with vigorous opposition from one end of the country to the other. The same people who opposed this suggestion, however, applaud the efforts made to force purchasing power into our economic system through credit inflation. Such a distinction between these two forms of inflation is unjustified. A country can be subjected to ruinous and disastrous inflation just as well by credit as by having the Government start the printing presses.

Those who are hesitant to accept this view should recall that during the whole of the German inflation the government did not issue any paper currency. At no time did it get to that point which we apparently now regard in this country as the dividing line between safety and danger—the start of its printing presses.

Rather, insofar as the German government was concerned, it merely followed a policy of credit expansion and borrowed to meet its deficit. Of course, as prices rose it had to borrow larger and larger amounts, but never did it start printing money itself.

The great outpouring of currency was from the central bank of the country, just as here our Federal Reserve banks might issue currency if a credit inflation program of the Federal Government resulted in such a skyrocketing of prices that we all needed more money for daily expenses.

Financial System Determines Kind of Inflation.

Whether currency or credit expansion constitutes the real danger in any country, which is following an inflationary program, depends upon its financial and monetary system. Some countries, notably France and Italy, use currency in almost all their business transactions, except for relatively huge payments between large organizations. In these nations any appreciable expansion of purchasing power is reflected in an increase in the volume of currency outstanding.

Other countries, of which the United States and England are most outstanding, use credit almost exclusively. Here in normal times, for instance, we use currency for less than 10 per cent of the total volume of our business transactions. An expansion, accordingly, is reflected primarily through an increase of loans and deposits and is converted into active use by the drawing of a larger volume of checks.

Because of these differences in the financial and monetary systems of various countries inflation moves along different paths. Should there be a forced expansion of credit in France it, or a large proportion of it, would more or less immediately be converted into currency. The Bank of France, in consequence, would have to increase its outstanding note issue. In fact, the expansion itself in no small degree probably would have to take place by forcing such currency into circulation, rather than through merely writing up book credits to various borrowers as we would do in this country. The progress of inflation, therefore, could be followed with reasonable accuracy by watching the note issue of the Bank of France.

Currency Issues Here Would Not Remain Out.

In the United States, on the other hand, forcing purchasing power into the economic system, by means of having actual currency printed and paid out, quickly would result in an increase of bank deposits. Our citizens, in other words, more or less immediately would deposit such currency in their banks and proceed to spend it, if at all, by drawing checks against the deposits.

The progress of an inflationary program in this country, thus, would not be at all accutely indicated by the volume of outstanding currency. Rather, it would have to be measured by the amount of artificial purchasing power being injected into our economic system. Ultimately, of course, if prices became so high that each of us had to have two, or ten, or a thousand times as much money in his pocket to meet sundry expenses, there would be a reflection of the inflationary policy in the volume of outstanding currency. Before this happened, however, we would be well along the road to disaster.

At best, therefore, one can get only limited comfort from the vigorous outburst of opposition to the proposal of the cotton growers that the Government start the printing presses. That opposition is too far removed from the realities of our situation to meet the problem.

Our danger lies in the field of credit. The fact that it is difficult to distinguish in the aggregate between sound credit expansion and dangerous credit inflation does not make the problem any less important. It is a distinction which the public must learn to make if it is to take an effective stand against policies which can only result in undermining its standard of living and subjecting it to further economic distress.

Mart Removal Hit by Lawyer

Shift to New Jersey Draws Charge of "Defiance" by City Adviser.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Samuel Untermyer, economic adviser to the city administration, today sharply criticized the stock exchange's proposed move to New Jersey at a time when the world's "richest city" is in "pawn to the bankers."

Untermyer defended levies on stock transfers and brokers' incomes, in protest of which exchange members decided on the move across the river. He said the taxes affected "gamblers and room-traders," who are unwilling to "aid the city" in supporting unemployed.

"These speculators and their operations," said the noted lawyer, "may be necessary to a balanced market, as is claimed for them, as a reason for not outlawing their business as pure gambling, but if so they are a necessary evil.

"The threat of the stock exchange to move out of this State, which it is apparently about to carry into effect, if the law becomes effective taxing the gross incomes of the business of its members for the brief period of five months as a contribution toward furnishing food and shelter to the suffering and unemployed, presents * * * to the entire country a new and grave problem and object-lesson in insubordination, evasion and defiance of lawful authority."

Nation's Trade Moves Ahead On Even Keel

Steel Production Slump Checked; Goods Still Tardy in Rise.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Nation's business moved forward on an even keel through the mists surrounding the inflation controversy last week.

The slump in steel production was checked by last-minute orders for delivery against expiring contracts, automobile production receded a little, business expanded in cotton textile, and the volume of retail trade was maintained at levels well above a year ago, despite the marked bulge of September, 1932.

The cloudy area on the business horizon was still the producers goods industries. The steel industry, however, was encouraged by the prospect of early action to stimulate heavy purchases of rails, by making Government credit available to the railroads. This, together with a moderate rise in steel prices resulting from the higher costs of operation under the NRA, was expected to bring enough new business to sustain the industry well into the winter.

While surveys earlier in the week indicated some boost in steel ingot output, this proved short lived, and the week-end estimate by the publication Steel placed output at 40 per cent of capacity, off 1 point from a week ago.

Reports from the automobile industry were regarded as highly satisfactory for this season of the year, although they were a little less optimistic. Cram's placed output for the week at 43,699 units, off 4,354 from the previous week, and said indications were that September production will be a little under 200,000, contrary to earlier expectations. Incomplete reports indicated a little recession in retail sales for this time of year.

Dun & Bradstreet said the week's reports confirmed the strong resumption of consumer buying. Substantial gains in retail trade were shown in Pacific Coast and some of the middle Western States, reports to this agency indicated, although there was some slight recession in the East.

Tobacco Pact On Flue Cured Believed Near

The Farm Adjustment Administration announced last night it was near a marketing agreement with domestic buyers of flue-cured tobacco but that, if necessary, licensing features of the farm act would be used.

The announcement said most of the larger companies would pay an average of 17 cents a pound for the remainder of the season. This approximates parity price.

It was stated tobacco men and Government officials still differ on some points; it was indicated the administration intends to force an agreement, if necessary.

Because North and South Carolina tobacco markets reopen today Federal officials and representatives of the larger domestic buyers met most of Saturday night and yesterday in conference. Buyers agreed to purchase an amount of tobacco for the remainder of this season equal to that used in the year ending June 30.

The visitors, who do not form an official mission, were presented by Count de Chambrun, French Ambassador. The Duce extended them the unusual honor of a complete tour of Venezia Palace.

Stocks Come Back After Drop During Inflation Fever Battle

Shares End Worst Setback Since July, With Gains Late in Week; Market Reveals Confident Spirit as Prices Stiffen.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The latest inflationary speculative fever in financial markets was squelched this week as Washington turned a cold shoulder to proposals for currency depreciation.

Shares and some of the commodities experienced their worst setbacks since the smash of last July, but prices stiffened toward the end of the week.

Bar silver also made progress during the week, ending 1¾ cents an ounce above the level of the preceding Saturday, but both wheat and corn lost more than 3 cents a bushel for the week, and rye 5 to 6 cents.

Despite some recovery from the mid-week slump, the price index of 90 representative stocks finished at 82.6, off 5.5 points from a week earlier, and at approximately the level of mid-August. Gilt-edged bonds, which had been depressed by the inflationary agitation, recovered, but more speculative issues lost ground along with stocks, and the price index of 60 issues was off more than 2 points for the week. The turnover in shares quickened to just under 16,000,000, from approximately 10,500,000 a week previously, and bonds to more than $30,000,000 par value, from $51,700,000.

The agitation for monetary inflation, emanating chiefly from Southern Senators, was accompanied by considerable selling of the dollar abroad.

Europeans also became concerned anew over their dollar securities and were active sellers of both stocks and bonds in this market. The dollar dropped to a gold equivalent of about 63½ cents, as measured by the French franc, but ended the week at approximately 64¾ cents, or 2¼ cents under the level of the end of last week.

A series of steps designed to promote credit expansion was reported from Washington. In addition to loans to cotton planters against their staple on the basis of 10 cents a pound, it was announced that $75,000,000 would be spent for farm produce for relief of unemployed this winter, and was it understood that large loans would soon be made available to the railroads to buy rails and renovate their equipment. Further efforts were made, also, to spur public works. The Federal Reserve, however, failed to increase the rate of its injection of credit into the open market through government security purchases, holding the week's acquisitions to about $35,000,000.

Bond Recovery Ends Week of Heavy Losses

Sinking Is Halted by Rise of All Categories in Sharp Rallies.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Blown about by the winds of inflation, bonds during the past week suffered their worst casualties in more than two months.

For some time fixed income securities had been showing relative steadiness despite the feverish expectancy in speculative circles that the administration would be forced to utilize its wide powers for currency expansion. Bondholders, however, were inclined to entertain more conservative views and there was little pressure on prime investment groups.

The week started with growing doubts accentuated by the appeals of some congressmen for immediate inflation, or dollar depreciation, as a means of reviving sagging commodity prices. Some important institutional selling appeared in the higher grade categories and the liquidating rush was on.

All Classes in Decline.

All classes participated in the ensuing decline which, in the case of the rails, amounted to more than 5 points at one time. The industrials registered some resistance, but the utilities were nearly as heavy as the rails.

Selling continued at a fast pace until Friday when there was a revival of antiinflation sentiment and all categories rallied sharply. Although Washington was silent as to its fiscal intentions, the belief grew that drastic currency expansion was not an immediate prospect. There were also indications that the administration was seriously considering the inauguration of a managed currency and that, in the meantime, all efforts would be used to materially broaden the credit field.

At its worst during the week, the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate loans was only about a point ahead of this average in the same week last year. It was also around 9 points under the 1933 high.

Recoveries on Friday.

While on Friday the most notable recoveries were in the secondary groups, which usually follow stocks, highest grade loans rallied impressively. Market observers, in seeking a clue to inflationary prospects, watch these low-yield maturities closely.

The industrial picture was a little blurred, with production showing declines in some quarters. Retail trade, though, continued to record healthy gains.

United States Government securities were fairly firm at times, although they were subjected to occasional pressure. The Federal Reserve system's open market purchases for the week were virtually unchanged at some $35,000,000.

Gen. Malone Holds Camps Successful

Army Corps Area Head on Inspection Tour.

Luray, Va., Sept. 24 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Paul Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, said today Conservation Corps camps were no longer experiments but an unqualified success.

He began a three-day inspection tour of camps in this subdistrict. At Beech Spring he inspected subdistrict headquarters and with Lieut. Col. G. W. C. Whiting, of Richmond, commander of the district, inspected Camps Roosevelt, George Dern, Fechner and Nira.

He lunched at Camp Roosevelt and said he would spend tonight at Camp Nira.

Christ Portrayed As 'Forgotten Man'

Dr. Harris Stresses Need for Spiritual Recovery.

Christ, "the unemployed Carpenter," is really the "forgotten man," and the church is the forgotten institution, Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the Foundry Methodist Church, told his congregation yesterday.

Dr. Harris stressed the need for spiritual senses of value in the present age.

"The new prosperity must be luminous with deep spiritual meanings of life, life with the arms of the Almighty underneath it," said Dr. Harris.

Two Saw Out of Jail; Nine Refuse to Escape

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 24 (Spl.)—State and county police are searching Barbour and adjoining counties for two prisoners who for the second time sawed their way out of the Barbour County Jail at Philippi last night, offering freedom in vain to nine other prisoners.

The escaped men are Edward Streets, 47, and his nephew, Esker Streets, 26, both of Laurel Creek, held on a store robbery charge.

Flying Mollisons Delay Start of Bagdad Hop

Toronto, Sept. 24 (AP).—The flying Mollisons, James and Amy, announced tonight they had postponed start of their 6,500-mile flight from Wasaga Beach, Ontario, to Bagdad.

King Carol Greets Prince and Jugoslavia Rulers.

Sinaia, Roumania, Sept. 24 (AP).—Kisses were liberally exchanged in an atmosphere of royal cordiality today with the arrival of King Alexander and Queen Marie of Yugoslavia to celebrate the anniversary of Pelesch Castle.

Prince Nicholas of Roumania, who eloped with a commoner in 1931, renouncing his rights to succession, accompanied them and was warmly greeted by his brother, King Carol of Roumania. The Prince's marriage had caused an estrangement.

Curb Defeats Week's Early Selling Drive

Thursday's Loss Climax Followed by Recovery on Heavy Sale.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The curb market waded through several heavy selling waves last week before encountering support levels. Initial irregularity was followed by more persistent liquidation which reached a climax on Thursday, when losses of 1 to more than 5 points depleted the ranks.

Utilities sustained major losses as buyers neglected the group even at concession prices. Electric Bond & Share and Commonwealth Edison were heavy at times. Metals, on the other hand, continued the previous week's upward trend and a number of new highs were recorded before profit taking shaded the gains. Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Newmont and New Jersey Zinc were in the demand. Alcohols followed the general market into lower territory.

In the industrial category General Tire & Rubber slumped sharply at times, although in restricted trading, while Parker Rust Proof, Aluminum Co. of America and Singer Manufacturing also had a reactionary tone. Oils sold lower, Gulf dipping rather sharply on occasions.

Trading assumed active proportions and showed a sizeable increase over the previous week. Transfers averaged around 400,000 shares per session.

$177,875,606 for Loans.

A total credit of $177,875,606 is available to the 1,694 member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, the Home Loan Bank Board announced yesterday.

Cotton Complications.

One more feature has been added to the complicated plan by which the Government is aiding the cotton farmer. The administration has agreed to lend 10 cents per pound on cotton that is still held by producers. When this announcement was made the farm value of cotton was only about 9 cents. By lending farmers a little more than their cotton is worth while sponsoring another vigorous acreage reduction drive for 1934 officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration hope to raise prices to the so-called parity level.

Last spring the Government lent a large sum of money to farmers to finance their crops. Then farmers were asked to destroy about one-fourth of their growing cotton to avoid a price-depressing surplus, and taxes were levied on the processing of cotton goods to compensate farmers for their sacrifice. These benefits are now being paid without deduction of the amounts loaned.

At the time this program was launched the Government had a considerable amount of cotton on hand. These holdings were sold at 6 cents a pound to farmers who agreed to reduce their acreage. Now the Government is ready to take liens on cotton at 10 cents per pound. If the price of this staple should decline, the Government would again find itself in possession of a large quantity of cotton. It is estimated that producers still have about 8,000,000 bales on hand. If they should all take advantage of the A. A. A. offer, about $400,000,000 would be required.

Under normal conditions about one-half of the American cotton crop is exported. Last year the price of cotton was severely depressed and exports were unusually high. Exports continued on a large scale during the first eight months of this year. A peak was reached in July in spite of the fact that cotton prices had gone up, but in August there was a sharp decline.

It is reported that large quantities of American cotton and other commodities have been stored in Europe by dealers who expect prices to increase here. There are already indications that Egyptian and Indian cotton have acquired an advantage in price over the American product.

There is a widespread inclination to sympathize with the farmer's plea for higher prices. But if the cotton grower should achieve higher prices and lose part of his market, his apparent gains might turn to losses. Farmers ought not to lose sight of the fact that while they are restricting their acreage here, growers in other countries may expand their crops to take up the slack in the world's output.

It is proposed to reduce cotton acreage in 1934 to 25,000,000, compared with 41,000,000 acres in 1932. About 60 per cent of a normal crop is said to be the objective. An opportunity might be provided to dispose of the surplus, yet if an extremely short crop in this country should be matched by heavy crops elsewhere, the situation in the world market would not be changed much. So long as the United States must compete in the world market it will be extremely difficult to maintain cotton prices on a pedestal in this country without undermining the export market.

A Postoffice Racket.

Some fourth-class postmasters are reported to have a racket all of their own. By a unique method they learned to inflate their compensation without the approval of Uncle Sam. But Postmaster General Farley has learned how the trick is done and is taking appropriate measures to stop it.

Postmasters of the fourth class are paid on a percentage basis. Their compensation equals 160 per cent of the first $75 worth of postage stamps which they cancel in their offices each quarter. In other words, every time such a postmaster cancels $1 worth of stamps he earns $1.60, until his cancellations exceed $75 in three months. This is quite an inducement to postmasters to cancel stamps. They are able to send packages to their friends and make money on the postage. It is just that trick which some postmasters are playing on the Government, according to Mr. Farley.

When reports of this racket reached Mr. Farley he put postoffice inspectors on the job. They are reported to have caught some postmasters sending large packages of foodstuffs to relatives and friends in distant States. "When the postmaster at one of these small offices deliberately mails heavy packages with a large amount of postage thereon," says Postmaster General Farley, "he does it obviously for the purpose of collecting in salary or compensation $1.60 for each dollar's worth of stamps placed on such matter. This also adds to certain other allowances for rent, light, fuel and equipment."

Joseph C. O'Mahoney, First Assistant Postmaster General, has been instructed to prepare legislation to correct these abuses. Apparently the nature of the remedy has not yet been decided upon, but there seems to be little doubt that these postmasters will pay for their indiscretion. It does not appear that the Government has been swindled of large sums, yet the nature of this offense is such as to destroy confidence in any postmaster guilty of it.

The Soviet's Big Harvest.

Soviet Russia is reported to have a bumper harvest. In the rural districts this fact is said to be putting new life into the peasants, who have grown accustomed to food shortages. The collective farms were more successful this year than formerly in getting their crops planted, and the weather has been kind. In most sections harvesting is proceeding as well as can be expected in Russia. Food probably will be more plentiful this winter than it has been for a long time.

An inadequate food supply has been one of the Soviet government's most serious problems in recent years. Some farmers slaughtered their cattle, others hoarded their grain, and still others refused to grow more than was needed for their own families because of the meager prospects of obtaining anything of value in return for it. The Kremlin has given a great deal of its attention, therefore, to the collective farms. Some of its most rigorous requirements have been abolished, yet farmers have been forced to yield to the general principles of the government's agricultural program.

But this is only one side of the picture. One important reason why the Soviet farmer has been indifferent in recent years about raising more foodstuffs than his family needed is the lack of industrial goods that may be obtained in Russia. If clothing, furniture, &c., could not be obtained for surplus grain what was the use of raising it? Soviet authorities took note of this disaffection and sought to correct it by promising to speed up the industries turning out consumers' goods. No doubt this promise had a considerable effect upon farmers during the planting season last spring. But the result is again disappointing.

Statistics released in Moscow show that Soviet industrial production during the first six months of this year is only 2.3 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of 1932. The government's plan called for an increase of 16.5 per cent. Slight improvements are indicated in the heavy industries. But the light industries which are striving to meet the demand for goods that enter into general consumption have made no headway, according to this study.

Soviet farmers will once more find an acute shortage of manufactured goods needed by their families. They are confronted by the same old question of surrendering their grain without much prospect of obtaining compensation in the form of industrial products. The continued shortage of consumers' goods takes away much of the satisfaction that otherwise might be found in the rural sections of Russia because of the bounteous harvest.

It will be interesting to note the attitude of the peasants next planting season when the question of taking a chance on improved industrial output must again be faced.

When Depression Touched Bottom.

There is a popular belief that the depression was at its worst in this country during the banking holiday last March, but world students of the subject do not agree with this idea. A report prepared by the economic intelligence section of the League of Nations indicates that, so far as the world's industrial production is concerned, the bottom was reached in the summer of 1932.

Improvement, according to these data, has been under way in most countries for more than a year. Experts of the League compared industrial production in ten different countries at the beginning of the summer with the records of last year. In every case an improvement was noted.

Japan and Chile reached the lowest point in the depression, as measured by industrial production, in the first quarter of 1932; Hungary, in the second quarter. In France, Sweden, the United States, Belgium and Austria the worst slump in production occurred in July, 1932. Germany hit the bottom in August, and conditions in Great Britain began to show an upward tendency about that same time. Canada and Poland are the only countries included in the study which reached a new low point in industrial production this year.

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production in the United States stood at 56 in July, 1932, compared with 60 last March. Factory employment was about the same for both months, but construction contracts were much lower in March. Freight car loadings last March fell lower than the July level, and commodity prices moved down from an index number of 65 to 60.

The banking holiday in the United States brought a sharp dip in the economic curves. But when complete studies are made this may be considered only an interruption of the basic improvements which had begun in the industrial world several months earlier. Special conditions produced a sort of second climax in the depression in the United States. Other countries were less affected by this interruption.

When conditions in the world as a whole are thoroughly reviewed it may appear that the summer of 1932 marked the low point of the depression.

South African Gold Tax.

The coalition government of South Africa was faced with an accumulated deficit of nearly £8,000,000 at the end of the new financial year. In order to overcome this deficiency the minister of finance, Nicolaas C. Havenga, turned to the gold mining industry. The gold mines were enjoying a prosperity that was unique during the depression years, and taxes were imposed on the industry which added £7,000,000 to the treasury.

Out of these new resources £5,000,000 will go to the farmers in various forms of relief. During the current fiscal year the government expects to receive a total of nearly £10,000,000 from the gold premium profits, which are expected to exceed £18,000,000. While the farmers and the finance department are apparently quite well pleased with this result, mining interests are not in agreement as to the successful solution of budget difficulties.

The tax works out at about 55 per cent of the profits, leaving the shareholders 45 per cent. The mine owners assert that this exaction is confiscatory and that it has checked an arranged policy of mining development. By making the extraction of low grade ore unprofitable it is claimed the prosperity which would have reached the country as a whole has been arrested.

South Africa is not unique in its tax problems. As various nations have discovered, in times of difficulty, when government expenditures are increased by relief programs and most industries are already burdened with taxes and debt, the few prosperous industries may be driven to the wall if forced to bear too heavy an emergency burden.

Revenue From Liquor.

In addition to the somewhat confused situation existing in various States which may be found unprepared to handle their responsibilities with regard to the sale of liquor, there has been considerable difference of opinion as to just what Federal regulations will become applicable after repeal. With the view of determining what statutes, rulings and decisions will die with prohibition and which will be revived, Treasury officials are making an exhaustive survey of all measures bearing on the subject.

Classification of all the laws, tariff rates and tax schedules has been found to be quite an undertaking. It seems clear that early computations of Federal income from liquor sales based on the tax rate of $6.40 a gallon will have to be revised. That tax was written into the law after the war and imposed upon spirits "diverted" for beverage purposes. Rulings in the Internal Revenue Bureau have held that this means "illegally diverted," and since, after prohibition is repealed, there will be no such thing as illegal diversion, that special rate presumably will expire.

The higher levies that were in force during the war, first $2.40 a gallon and then $4.40, were terminated automatically, so that it is now held the tax on liquor will revert to the old basic rate of preprohibition days, which is $1.10 a gallon.

Tariff rates on imported spirits and wines are in quite the reverse position, as levies under the Smoot-Hawley law of 1930 are nearly double those in force before prohibition. Duties on brandies and spirits are $5 a gallon, on champagne and other sparkling wines $6 a gallon, and on still wines $1.25 a gallon. All imported liquor must, of course, pay internal revenue taxes in addition to tariff charges. Owing to the comparatively small amount of fully aged domestic liquor available for release next year it is predicted that there will be heavy importations from Europe.

In view of the complications existing with regard to liquor laws and the changed conditions which will follow repeal, it is expected that the Congress will make drastic changes in both tax regulations and tariffs relating to alcoholic beverages.

The 1934 Model.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Uneasy, too, lie those collective heads from which, within the next few months, will spring the 1934 model motor cars.

Among the heads in the group are those of the motor factory engineering department, where the design ideas originate; the production department, which must translate them into automobiles produced at reasonable cost; the sales department, which faces the task of making the public like them; and, over all the others, those company executives who will be responsible to stockholders for every mistaken idea that may come from any of the other three groups.

It is easily perceived in the harassed look on the faces of company executives that the public is an autocrat in whose hands lies the power of economic life or death, and whose bland indifference gives no hint of which is in store.

Nor has the depression made matters anything but harder. The industry's contact with the public in the past three years has been less intimate, less broadly indicative of what buyer taste really is like. With buying already being resumed on a considerable scale, and still more in the offing, any design mistake is likely to prove more than ordinarily costly. On top of three dull years, no company can afford to make one. Hence the acute concentration upon the 1934 model automobiles.

The technique for avoiding mistakes is one that is known to very few of those for whom these cars are being designed.

It begins with trying to discover what one's competitor is planning to do. The intensity with which this information is sought has made secret-keeping a virtual impossibility in the automobile field. A manufacturer's competitors always know far in advance of his customers what that manufacturer is going to offer.

Car manufacturers, however, realize they can not do just what their competitors plan to do. It is a game of poker in which each desires to see what the other has, then raise him several features. Here is another field fertile in possible mistakes.

These to be most carefully avoided are the ones relating to appearance. To be ugly, or not so handsome as another automobile, is for any car to die.

Whether new or old, every mechanical element of the car must have proved itself thoroughly before the manufacturer can afford to adopt it.

With these and other considerations in mind, the administrative and engineering staffs of the motor companies are preparing to present their 1934 models. To a man, they will agree that the season through which they are going is just about the hardest of the year.

THE GARBLE SISTERS

"Well, I'm glad the Giants won the National League pennant at Kenwood through the great pitching of that boy Georgie Dunlap."

"It should ge a good world series. Washington has a tough left-hander in Max Marston and don't forget it."

"Are you going to the series?"

"I am if I can get tickets through my old friend, Judge Kenesaw Johnson."

"I see where there is talk of shortening up the qualifying rounds in baseball next year."

"Yeah. They claim too many good players get put out before the semifinals under present conditions. Look at Johnny Goodman. If he hadn't been eliminated so soon he might have won for the Red Sox."

* * * *

"Who do you think will pitch the opener for the Giants?"

"I had an idea Carl Sharkey would do it, but since he got shown up by Lefty Levinsky in that Chicago game I ain't sure."

"It looks to me like Max Baer again Chick Evans in the opener."

"I see where the President has at last got that coal code signed."

"Sure. I knew Aimee McPherson would win those operators over. Everybody's taken out a blue eagle in the coal industry now except Ross Somerville."

"What do you think of all these fellers shouting for inflation?"

"Well, if it will make Europe disarm and bring about some agreement on war debts, I think it's all right. How do they work inflation, anyhow?"

"It's all done by ignoring the Monroe doctrine and letting gold find its level; regardless of the Cuban crisis."

"Yeah. But I think he should go slow in making an alliance with Bermuda just because Mussolini wants it."

"I see where Hitler has agreed to cut out his hunger strikes."

"It's just as well. You can't get anywhere fighting those British!"

The situation in Cuba is so confusing that the spectators are threatening to boycott the revolution unless they number the players.

REGARDING A VAUDEVILLE EVANGELIST.

Aimee Semple McPherson is appearing at the Capitol Theater in New York at $5,000 a week. Possibly Sister Aimee's idea of the Golden Gates is a $5,000 minimum.

Maybe it feels good to some working men to be able to get their jobs back again so they can go out on a nice long strike.

It will be illegal to sell wild animals in New York without a license after October 1. What all real estate men there will want to know is whether this applies to white elephants.

"Union Painters Go Out On Strike"—headline. That explains perhaps why one of them quit a certain job yesterday in a huff when told he would have to give the walls three codes.

SIDEWALKS ON HIGHWAYS.

That is a good idea of the Bay State authorities, to use a considerable part of the Federal money that is coming to Massachusetts in the construction of sidewalks along the main highways. This will furnish an opportunity for the pedestrian to keep out of the road and make the lot of the motor car driver easier, says the Bangor Commercial. The time will arrive when all highway construction will include provision for sidewalks. The sooner it arrives, the quicker there will be reduction in the list of motor fatalities.

TOTAL COLOR-BLINDNESS RARE.

Although 50,000 persons throughout the world are affected with partial color-blindness, total color-blindness is exceedingly rare, according to Collier's. In fact, only 125 cases have ever been found, 11 of which were in the United States.

William Lyon Phelps

Daily Talk About Books and Authors.

FOREWORD.

Forty years ago, almost to the day, I entered Yale as a sophomore, my freshman year having been spent at the University of California. I did not know a boy in the class and felt pretty lonely.

I was told to report to Dr. William Lyon Phelps, who would be my class officer. At that time the class officer was supposed to act as our guide, counselor and friend. "Billy" Phelps, as every one called him, and has ever since, made me feel at once that I had a friend at Yale. He was my best friend on the faculty as long as I remained there. I am glad to say, we have been friends ever since.

In the last 40 years his courses have been the most widely attended at the university and he has been a friend of thousands of Yale boys, as he was mine, always trying to interest and stimulate them.

I am happy to have the opportunity to introduce him to the readers of The Washington Post and I am sure you will like him. EUGENE MEYER.

HUCKLEBERRY FINN

I heard Mark Twain read aloud from the manuscript of "Huckleberry Finn" before the book was published.

In 1876 my father and mother moved from Providence, R. I., to Hartford, Conn., where Mark Twain was in the plenitude of his powers, though no one believed he was a great novelist. One of his most intimate friends was the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, and Mark Twain used to give readings and recitations at church "socials" in the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, of which "Joe" Twichell was pastor. On one of these evenings I heard Mark tell with marvelous skill the story "Where's My Gold Arm?" At another time he read from his book just published, "Tom Sawyer."

Although Mark was the best-known citizen of Hartford, most of the inhabitants regarded him as having more notoriety than fame. He was ranked with Artemus Ward and Josh Billings, and I can well remember the general disappointment when "The Prince and the Pauper" was published. "Does he think he is a novelist?"

Today "Huck Finn" is not only regarded as one of the finest American novels, it is also one of the great books of the literature of the world. This is because it reveals the eternal nature of boyhood. Tom and Huck are quite different; Tom is the "smart" youth, who will some day be a captain of industry; Huck is the child of nature, with an untutored and pictorial imagination. But they are the most natural boys in all literature. And Jim is the kindly, harmless, superstitious Negro, whose conversations with Huck on the raft are incomparable.

I wonder what Mark's neighbor in Hartford, Harriet Beecher Stowe, thought about "Huckleberry Finn" and "Pudd'nhead Wilson?"

Comment of the Press

The Patronage Protest.
Houston Post.

Of all sciences there is none where first appearances are more deceitful than in politics. As late as last June, four months after the historic Democratic inauguration, all was serene in the party ranks. Patronage had not yet begun to emit its poison. Today, from Connecticut to California, disappointed job seekers are as puffed up as if bitten by an asp, and the inevitable resentment is pulsing like a fever in the (Democratic) body politic.

If it was no more than that—the usual patronage reaction among the malcontents—it would be left to time, the great healer, and then forgotten about. But it goes deeper. It has reached a point where party loyalty, the very shibboleth of partisan politics, is regarded as at stake. Not within the ranks, but at the top—which is worse.

Thus a growing number of United States senators and representatives see it.

Their greatest resentment is not at a dearth of jobs or the delays with which patronage was dispensed. It is that irregular Republicans are filling posts that regular Democrats should grace.

A Rush to Make Whisky.
Wall Street Journal.

That competition is going to get stronger and stronger in the manufacture of alcohol and alcoholic beverages is indicated by the fact that scarcely a week goes by when some corporation or concern does not announce its intention of going in this fast-growing "when, as and if" industry. If all of these intentions are borne out, it is going to be a crowded game when repeal takes place, and undoubtedly a lot of those who expect to make big profits in whisky and alcohol will find their hopes dashed.

Reducing Production.

Motor cars are carrying NRA signs. That must mean "I do hereby promise to run over as few pedestrians as possible."

Kansas and Crime.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The news of the day and for months past makes it pertinent to ask again: "What's the matter with Kansas?" Throughout all the Midlands and the Southwest, criminals of every sort have been holding sway, kidnapers, bank robbers, highwaymen, who shoot to kill. But in Kansas they have been finding their happiest hunting ground.

They know that there they have little to fear. Time after time they have staged their daylight bank robberies, shot down inoffensive citizens, and successfully played their game of hide-and-seek with the officers of the law, who have belatedly got on their trail.

There may be other things "the matter with Kansas," but if its people are not getting soft and indifferent toward these continual crimes of violence, and thereby helping to complicate the question of law enforcement throughout the entire Southwest, where else shall the answer be found?

The Nation's Slums.
San Francisco Chronicle.

If the national recovery program can abolish the slums of great cities it will be one more great achievement under economic necessity that humanitarian effort long has sought in vain. Like child labor, happily disappearing because under the new industrial code it will become unprofitable, the slum, another institution universally admitted to be a reproach to civilization, has resisted efforts to make it a thing of the past.

There's a Catch in It.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

THE "students" and ABC revolutionaries who are quite prominent these days in our national affairs have about come to the reluctant conclusion that there is no redistribution of wealth involved in the NRA, and their enthusiasm for it is resultantly on the wane. There is a notable evidence of this in the discussions that go on in our forums and salons, which are so much a part of our life here in the Nation's Capital where only a few weeks ago a critic of the NRA literally was likely to get jumped upon before he got the words out of his mouth.

Bargeron.

Increasing instances are reported of his being permitted to finish a sentence, if not his statement in whole. Some of this changed attitude is due, of course, to a general weariness that has come over the disputants and a feeling of "Oh, let the thing be hanged."

* * * *

But it is more due, I am sure, to the lack of zeal on the part of those who never seriously looked upon the beneficial aspects of the NRA, but fanatically took it as an instrument of torture to the rich. They insisted from the beginning that the wealth of this country was concentrated in the hands of a few and that these few were responsible for the mess we got in. The thing to do was to take this wealth from them, and this is what the NRA was going to do.

I heard intelligent men gloat over what it was about to do to the "coal barons." Yet it turns out that what was done to the "coal barons" was to guarantee their profits for the first time in history.

This light on things, slowly breaking through, would most naturally dampen the ardor of the revolutionaries and cause them to turn to something else, for which the sorely harrassed NRA should be very thankful, indeed.

Manifestly the only two instances of redistributed wealth that have come so far under the New Deal, or rather the two notable ones that have come to my attention was the reduction of Mr. Pennsylvania Atterbury's salary and Vincent Astor's decision to publish a magazine. In the case of Mr. Atterbury the redistribution was brought about not by the NRA but by Mr. Eastman, the railroad coordinator.

It was Mr. Eastman's contribution to the demand of the hour, so to speak. It is as though Mr. Eastman were sitting on a box in front of his office when the revolutionaries marched by shouting demands for redistributed wealth, and thinking suddenly: "Why, I know where I can do my bit on that." And being the man of action that he is, he forthwith went into his office and addressed a letter to Mr. Atterbury telling him to reduce his salary.

As Mr. Eastman said, it wouldn't bring about recovery, but it would have a psychological effect.

If the administration had anything to do with Mr. Vincent Astor's decision to redistribute his wealth it was, of course, the persuasiveness of Mr. Roosevelt himself.

The point is that the NRA had nothing to do with either case.

This is not to say, however, that the redistribution of wealth, or attempt at it, may not later come. The indications, in fact, are that the administration has it very seriously in mind. And in this connection one hears considerable reference to the capital levy.

There undoubtedly will be tax legislation of some kind at the next session of Congress and if some other way to redistribute the wealth has not been found in the meantime, it is not unlikely that this will be the motivating influence in the shaping of a tax bill.

The taxes that were levied by the last session to take care of the public works program are automatically repealed at the end of the calendar year if repeal of the eighteenth amendment is ratified, which it surely will be. Riddance of these taxes has been used with telling effect in the repeal fight.

They will be removed all right. But there will be another tax bill—and how!

Just Folks.

Thought While Shaving.

As I was shaving, in the glass
Across my face there seemed to pass
The frown of yesterday which made
My little child of me afraid.
And something whispered: "Take a view
At what ill temper does to you.

"Day after day in manner grave
You stand before this glass to shave
And can you quite contented be
With that complacent face you see?
I wonder does it cross your mind
Just how you look when you're unkind?

"Suppose you speak a cruel word,
And many times has that occurred,
Can you your face reflected here
Behold with heart and conscience clear?
Can you still smile and stay serene
When you've been selfish, false or mean?

"Does it not bother you to know,
That as the mornings come and go
Before this glass upon your shelf
You'll have to stand and see yourself?
Take care of what you are and do
That you may proudly look at you."

Program Given By Alexandria Club Women

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Robert L. Sayles, emblem chairman of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club, was in charge of the program for the annual emblem breakfast yesterday morning in the George Mason Hotel.

Miss Elizabeth M. Ramey, president of the club, delivered the welcome. Rev. Ernest W. Aaron, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, said the invocation. Vocal selections were given by Lawrence E. Roland, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book. Miss Evangeline Griesemer read the challenge of the emblem; Miss Rietta Butler, the pledge, and the federation song, "The Golden Key," was sung by Miss Lucy M. Graves.

Colored Church Extends Free Job Agency 1 Year

Authorization was given yesterday to the Rev. Harold R. Randolph, 708 Columbia road northwest, by the African Methodist Episcopal Zion denomination, to continue, during the next year, his activities in securing employment through a free service bureau for those who apply.

This service has been given by him for several years solely on the basis of his interest in the work. He anticipates customary seasonal cooperation of employers.

Parkers in Restricted Area Given Tickets

Thirty autoists received tickets from the park police early yesterday evening for parking in the restricted area on the south side of D street, behind the old Southern Railway Building.

Drive to rid this area of parkers was begun September 19, after park police replaced Traffic Bureau "no parking" signs with signs of their own. Parking in the "bottleneck" at the new Postoffice Building is also forbidden at all hours.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

What Price Obesity?

It is and has been for some time fashionable for young women to be thin. In order to conform these women are going without breakfast and restraining their eating in other ways. The prevalence of this vogue has made it somewhat more difficult to reduce the consumption rate in this group. But that is about all that can be said, from the health standpoint, against this fashion.

Something can be said for it. It has proved the feasibility of preventing obesity, so far as concerns a large part of the female population. It has been demonstrated that the average young person can restrain the desire to eat, and thereby escape obesity during youth. The comparative ease with which obesity can be prevented has been established.

Those interested in general health hope young women will continue the practice of prevention as they pass 30 years of age and move on over the meridian of life, for there is great advantage and almost no disadvantage in being thin in the later decades. Possibly the fashion may become contagious and men over 30 may catch it. The people who have most of the gall stones, infected gall bladders, and the dyspepsia caused by these disorders are fat at 40. While this is an unpleasant and uncomfortable group of disorders, they are trifling in importance as compared with another combination that is commonly associated with obesity in middle life and beyond. The combination is high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis and apoplexy, high blood sugar, diabetes, gangrene, and acidosis resulting in coma.

In persons beyond 50, a large part of the severe illness is the result of a combination of obesity, diabetes, and high blood pressure. What the relationship between them is no one can say with certainty, but this much is sure—the three hunt in combination. If a person gets one he is very likely to find before many years that he has the other two. What is of great importance, if he pitches in and cures one he will generally find that he has either cured or greatly benefited the other two.

About the most satisfactory treatment for high blood pressure known today is bringing the weight down to one that is about normal for the height, age, and build. Likewise an important method of treating diabetes is to reduce the weight skillfully, without causing acidosis, producing weakness, or carrying the reduction too far.

Physician Erred.

Curious writes: Our doctor left me some morphine pills to ease intense pain after tooth extraction. I did not take any at the time, but have since taken one at night for severe headache. It produced a stupor which lasted far into the next day. Some friends and I have since been discussing the danger connected with taking these pills. What is the danger?

Reply.

Your physician should not have left morphine tablets with you. You should not have taken them for headache. The pain following extraction of a tooth is rarely if ever sufficient to warrant the use of morphine by a physician. To leave this drug for the patient to take at his will could not be justified. The danger is not of death due to acute morphinism. There is no likelihood that you had morphine enough for that, however recklessly you may have used it. The danger is of the morphine habit.

Radio Waves and Ripples

WJSV will open a radio dancing school Friday.

Tap and ballet dance tips with such demonstration as can be made with sound will radiate from the Columbia station here weekly under the guidance of Marian D. Venable, of Hagerstown, formerly Marian Durbrow, of the Chicago Opera Company ballet.

Miss Venable learned much of her dancing from Ned Wayburn in New York. She will have a pupil in the studio, making illustrative foot noises on a platform.

It's a brand new WJSV sustaining program, which the minds there quickly named "Dancing on Air."

Whitecaps Tonight.

WOL—Washington Radio Revue, 7; Amalgamated Broadcasting System inaugural, 8 to 12. WJSV—Myrt and Marge, 7; Fray and Braggiotto, 8:45; "The Big Show," 9:30. WRC—Wizard of Oz, 5:45; Manhattan Revue, 8; A. and P. Gypsies, 9; Jules Lande, 10:45. WMAL—Arcade Sunshine, 6:45; Richfield Club, 7:30; Victory Banquet, 9; The Hour Glass, 10:15.

To give the Amalgamated Broadcasting System's inaugural program the proper kind of a send-off here tonight, WOL has arranged for speeches at 8:45 from Postmaster General Farley, New York Congressman Sol Bloom and Judge Sykes, Radio Commission chairman.

WOL is to remain firm on its notions about boosting home talent regardless of how hard the Ed Wynn network tries to lure it from its chosen path with better-known Broadway performers.

Just to prove it, Program Director Ted Ostenkamp has crowded 15 Washington acts, one a chorus of 20 voices, into the hour of broadcasting which will precede the inaugural at 8. Furthermore, he is writing continuity in a way designed to publicize the best that is in the home talent.

From New York yesterday Amalgamated announced the addition of seven New England stations to the network and an arrangement with the Chicago Opera Company, now playing New York's Hippodrome, for regular broadcasts. WOL is listed to receive the opera exerpts.

WJSV insists it was an accident that Phil Crist and the Three Maids just happened to be amusing themselves with a little impromptu program while Wilkins Coffee executives and station chiefs were conferring on what to add to the Monday and Friday night shows. At any rate the Maids, instead of the usual orchestral pieces, will provide the Crist accompaniment for the October 2 opening.

Prof. Raymond Moley will do a special You and Your Government broadcast for N. B. C. Dean Isidor Loeb, of Washington University, and Dean Walter J. Shepard, of Ohio State University, will share the microphone time. The occasion will be the American Political Science Association meeting in Philadelphia in December.

A new Government series starts on a Nation-wide chain October 3, with former Mayor Murray Seasongood and City Manager C. A. Dykstra, of Cincinnati.

U. S. Radio Commission engineers decline to be impressed by Columbia's characterization of the future broadcasting as an element-defying radio feat. They point out it's been done before, and expect few important contributions to radiocasting knowledge.

Just the same Columbia is planning to load 5,000 pounds of equipment aboard the S. S. Jacob Ruppert, Byrd flagship.

The N. B. C. Goldbergs will radio their own observance of Yom Kippur Thursday night. Cantor David Putterman, Temple Israel, New York, and the Machtenberg Boys Choir will be called in to help.

When Jouett Shouse speaks a "Will Virginia Repeal?" speech for the Young Democrats of Alexandria Thursday, WJSV will be there at 9 with a microphone.

Ripples.

The Agriculture Department's Helen Crouch, once a home economics instructor at Cornell University, begins a WJSV Household Chat series Wednesday morning . . . the radio code-makers called off their scheduled hearing this week . . . expect to get together at the Raleigh Wednesday . . . how about a code for listeners? . . . John McCormack has a new N. B. C. contract calling for weekly broadcasts of about half a dozen songs . . . N. B. Frank Hawks will tell of flying thrills on the Fire Chief program tomorrow . . . N. B. C. will broadcast a rehearsal of Nancy Carroll in "Undesirable Lady" October 2 . . . Presbyterian and Jewish is the Columbia Church of the Air schedule for Sunday . . . have you noticed that all four Washington newspaper aircasters now operate from one of the two N. B. C. outlets here?

Fanny May Baldridge, Miracles of Magnolia girl (above), gets song ideas by attending Negro religious meetings, singing with the congregation. She's heard every night except Sunday over an N. B. C. network. N. B. C. has borrowed Hilda Burke (left), from the Chicago Civic Opera Company for a series of Friday broadcasts which should reach loudspeakers here from WMAL at 7:15. The third picture is that of Eddie Duchin, who wanted to be a pharmacist. He and his band radiate from Columbia's WJSV.

Bishop Leads In Dedication Of Parish Hall

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Thronged by more than 500 persons, the new $10,000 parish hall at St. George's Episcopal Church, Clarendon, was dedicated yesterday afternoon by the Right Rev. Frederick Deane Goodwin, bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Virginia.

The Piedmont Convocation participated in the services, including the Rev. Henry J. Miller, rector of St. George's Church; the Rev. W. E. Rollins, the Rev. P. E. Hall, the Rev. A. C. Zabuskie, the Rev. C. A. Langston, the Rev. R. A. Cattleman, the Rev. M. S. Taylor, the Rev. J. G. Sadtler, the Rev. M. M. Perkins.

Clergymen from Arlington County were the Rev. Ira P. Harbaugh, the Rev. Elmer Lucas, the Rev. Walter F. Wolfe, the Rev. J. H. Pearson, the Rev. J. W. Townsend, and the Rev. G. E. McDorman.

Drys Urged to Vote.

The Rev. Ira P. Harbaugh, pastor of Ballston Christian Church, principal speaker at the dry rally yesterday in Cherrydale Methodist Church, urged voters to fight repeal at the polls October 3.

Other speakers were E. B. Dunford, general counsel of the Anti-saloon League, Mrs. Len Gilreath, W. T. C. U. lecturer, and D. Leigh Colvin, member of the national emergency prohibition committee.

Drive Planned.

Plans for participation in the National Red Cross roll call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving were announced at the executive meeting of the Arlington County Chapter at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Bertha Kelly. George A. Collier, Arlington, was reelected roll call chairman.

Group to Meet.

The Ballston Citizens Association will hold its monthly meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow, in Firemen's Hall.

Police Seeking Girl Murderer

Thrown Alive Into Swamp Near Chicago, Probe Discloses.

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—Coroner's physicians today revealed that a young woman, whose body was found in a swamp near here yesterday, had been drowned there.

Authorities first believed she died from an operation, but the post mortem showed water in the lungs and Dr. Jerry Kerns said the girl was alive when she was thrown into the swamp, near the Indiana line.

There were no marks of identification on her clothing and she wore no jewelry. She was 5 feet 3 inches tall, about 28 years old, weighed 130 pounds and had auburn hair.

The body was found only two blocks from where the body of Bobby Franks was discovered several years ago.

Police Pet Wives In Park as Trap

Seek to Nab Man Who Had Attacked 15 Women.

New York, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Fifty police detectives with their wives or sweethearts sat in lover-like postures on benches in Central Park tonight, attempting to trap a huge Negro who has attacked at least 15 women in the park during recent weeks.

In most instances the Negro—described as a powerfully built man whose huge arms give him the appearance of an ape—has attacked young women who were accompanied by men.

The novel search tonight was impelled by an attack on a girl in the park Saturday night.

Change Your Pictures —and you change your room

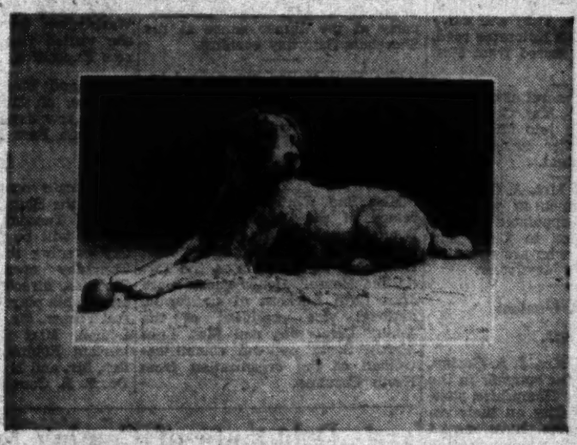
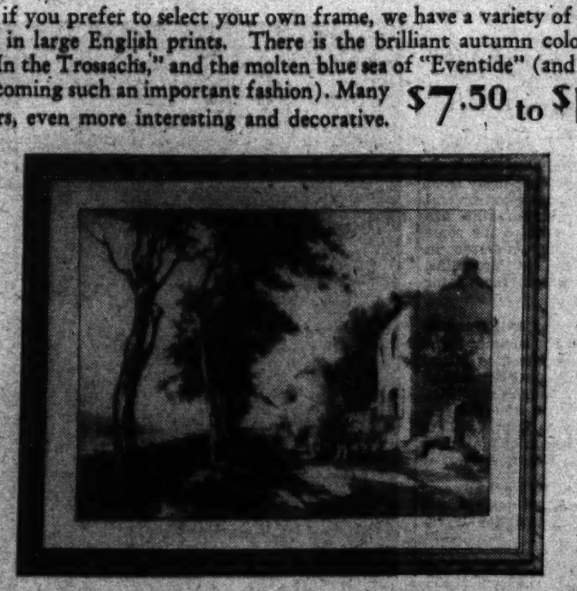
Just buy one of these imported Norwood prints of a Cornish or Durham scene, in soft colors and clear lines. They measure 14x17 and come framed in carved wood, tinted gold. (8x10 size, 65c.) $1.25



Or, if you prefer to select your own frame, we have a variety of subjects in large English prints. There is the brilliant autumn coloring of "In the Trossachs," and the molten blue sea of "Eventide" (and blue is becoming such an important fashion). Many others, even more interesting and decorative. $7.50 to $12



Perhaps your room has a French motif. We suggest a chateau by moonlight, Paris in the spring, or a spraying fountain. A wide variety of these French etchings is offered. Among so many you are sure to find the one for which you have been looking. $1 to $25

Modesty Dictates High Necks, Long Sleeves in Dinner Gowns

Victorian Version Called Most Discreet of All in Paris.

Long-sleeved, high-necked, floor-length dinner gowns are shown by the most prominent designers as the last word in 8 o'clock smartness.

The Victorian version of the dinner gown is the most discreet of all. Made of the heavy moires and ribbed Ottomans which appeared in the drawings of Queen Victoria's day, it covers arms, shoulders and ankles in approved Victorian style. Its collar is apt to roll fairly high about the throat, its sleeves are long and tight and its skirt occasionally finished with two or three back flounces reminiscent of bustles. An old gold brooch or antique jewel is sometimes poised at its neckline.

The 1934 version, however, mingles modesty with modern sophistication. It is apt to show a bit of white flesh somewhere in its design. Patou designs a black velvet gown with the back of the bodice and the long, tight sleeves made of velvet ribbed net which just films the skin. At the high neckline, finished with a little roll collar, flashes a diamond brooch.

Lanvin designs an old blue velvet gown with a lattice work top to the long tight sleeves, a high front neckline and a back slashed in a narrow "V" almost to the waist. De Marinis fashions a black velvet model with detachable sleeves fitting as closely as a glove and topped with a flare of black waxed lace which leaves the shoulders bare.

The gown with detachable sleeves is popular this winter, since it offers a formal evening gown and a dinner gown in one model. One of the most striking designs is of copper-hued velvet designed with long detachable sleeves held to the square cut decolletage by means of copper clips.

Son Born in California To Lieut. and Mrs. Ring

Lieut. and Mrs. Stanhope C. Ring are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son in Coronado, Calif., on Thursday.

Lieut. Ring is the son of Commodore James A. Ring, U. S. N., and Mrs. Ring, Washington. Mrs. Ring before her marriage was Mrs. Eleanor Reynolds Seligman, daughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. C. W. Reynolds.

Sports Clothes Emphasized at Fashion Show

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Sports clothes, which will lead the fall fashion parade, were the theme of Jelleff's style show Saturday afternoon.

Soft, unusual shades of green, Burgundy reds, rusts, gray blues and browns were glorified in knit suits, coat dress-suits, coat dresses, swagger coats in a lively variety of ribbed and linen wools, pickwales and tweeds.

Recurrent notes of the style song were the matching hats, twin sweaters, yellow pigskin gloves with brown frocks, white pigskins with greys and blacks and the long sport gauntlets matching the suits. Skirts were longer, hose darker, shoulders modified, sleeves detailed and trimmings running the gamut of design.

The swagger coats—most of them trimmed in raccoon—were conspicuously conservative and long enough to be worn not only with the matching skirt or dress, but other frocks as well.

Compliments to Miss Jane Tewksbury, Miss Helen Tewksbury, Miss Josephine Sparks and Mrs. Alma Barton, who modeled so effectively.

The tiny tots who have begun their scholastic careers this fall are entitled to a campus wardrobe just as their big sisters are. They, too, come under Dame Fashion's decree. It is never too early to begin a child's instruction about proper apparel. Often he is judged by the other pupils, their parents and the teacher by the way he is dressed.

A downtown store offers an attractive means of topping off the child's outfit. It's a tight-fitting little blue beret with initials in red letters on the side. When you buy the beret the initials are put on free of charge. Here's a new way to start him learning his alphabet.

The flare for initials has spread far and wide and is being well taken care of by Washington stores. One of them suggests that you drop by and see what they have to offer. You might bring your cigarette case, ash trays, compacts, bags or whatever you'd like initialed and let them show what they can do. Old English, square, oblong or outline letters, you may have your choice. They're made of chromium and put on with a special liquid which can be used also for removing them. Each initial is 15 cents.

That great American sport, bridge, has been a fertile source of ideas to manufacturers of novelties. Followers of the game are always interested not only in increasing their libraries in the subject, but in keeping up with the most efficient means of playing it. Mechanical card dealers made their appearance sometime ago, but many of them were not perfected to the point of being conveniently used. However, a downtown store now has some which work smoothly and easily. You place one in the middle of the table and turn a crank. The cards are quickly dealt around, one at a time. You may buy these in red or green for one dollar.

Curtains which hang completely over the window serve, in many instances, to darken a room which should have all the light posible, to be attractive. In the kitchen, unless tied back tightly, they're a nuisance. An F street store, realizing that little items of home comfort and convenience should be attended to with the same compunction as the larger and more looming things, has pairs of curtain ties on sale, hand-painted in yellow, rose, green, lavender, blue or tan. These are likely to be a big help, and they cost only 25 cents.

You've often seen and admired women whose skin suggested the mellow tones of old ivory, but you possibly never thought yours could do the same. Glad tidings! great joy! and so forth! For it can! A Connecticut avenue shop has a powder base which is not only ideally suited to daytime wear, but evening as well. If you want to appear in your fall frock to the utmost advantage don't neglect such a basic means.

A well-known beauty expert has a new face powder on the market. She says it has fineness and smooth texture, purity and perfect shades. It comes in two sizes, which sell for $1 and $3. The smaller one contains 2¼ ounces, the larger 7. This obviously is the better buy.

It comes in a highly glazed black paper box with a peach cover, and little decorative details in blue. After the seal covering is broken, when the puff is laid in and the cover buttoned the box is spill-proof.

For camping or fishing trips, where you are forced to "rough it," the little sterno stoves are ideally suited. A G street store has some which include a new heat intesifier designed to give quick results. If you've any needs for this type of cooking help, be sure and see these. They're handy little things for only 25 cents.

Directed by Amos Parrish.

Everyone's thoughts are turning indoors again. And the members of the bridge clubs are paging each other, wanting to know "When do we start?" On the heels of that thought, of course, comes another, "What shall I wear?"

For bridge parties and teas and the other cozy afternoon occasions of fall and wintertime require something softer than the tailored first-of-the-season frocks that everybody's been wearing. Something a speck more formal, but not too dressed up.

That dress in the picture is one answer. And you'll find a good many along the same order. Soft, rather full bodice. Dark faille crepe, canton or sheer crepe that doesn't look sheer, punctuated with white or a bright harmonizing shade.

But of course the big news about this dress is that the shoulders are smooth . . . no tricks, no padding . . . just a soft, rounded line. There is width in the bodice, however, on account of the fullness in the tops of the draped, slit sleeves.

Necks High.

The draped jabot-bib, coming high at the neck, is one thing that helps this costume to be more dressy. Others are plain in the front, with soft draping right at the neckline, close about the throat in the way that's becoming to almost every neck.

Some of these dresses get their formality in fabric contrast . . . that game that's as popular with fashion this year as bridge is with women. It's played with insets and collars of satin, shining against the dull crepe of the frocks.

We've noticed, too, afternoon dresses that put on their accent color—their make-up, so to speak—very effectively in embroidery at the shoulders or through the tops of the sleeves. This is in brilliant Chinese colorings that help a dark or neutral shade to go well with your face. Something that these dresses need, since most of them are in black, brown, bronze, green, or an old-fashioned dull color such as taupe or slatey blue.

Uncut Velvet Smart.

If you like rich, interesting fabrics that show off best in simply cut dresses, there's another kind of afternoon fashion for you to look at. And that's the dress of bagheera or uncut velvet. It is richest in colors . . . bronze green, vintage shades, red-browns and rusty browns. Color and fabric do almost all the work, and a bit of lace or a fur bow is the only trimming necessary.

Tomorrow: The best of the new fashions become short women.

Information as to where styles of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, The Washington Post, on request.

The Family Marketer

Turkeys, Capons, Chickens and Guineas Suggest Tempting Menus.

It may be blue Monday some places, but not on the market today. Turkeys, capons, chickens and guinea keat bring to mind that the jolly fall with its interesting fowl dinners is here and there's no reason why we shouldn't have one this very evening.

Broiled guinea keat are a temptation past resisting. Their meat has a pleasant flavor, but an individuality all of its own.

You have heard of the famous Delmonico guinea fowls. Young tender ones were always selected; dressed and trussed as if intended for roasting; the breast plunged into boiling water to stiffen the skin, and larded with fine shreds of pork; wrapped up in several sheets of buttered paper, then roasted either on the spit or in the oven. When three-quarters done they were unwrapped and browned a fine color; salted and dressed on croutons of bread fried in butter and decorated with their own feathers, or those of a pheasant.

Long Island Ducks.

Long Island ducks are hanging by their feet, looking as tempting as possible in such awkward postures. But ducks have an established reputation, so they can afford to hang or sprawl, as the dealer sees fit, and still be sure of purchasers. They're selling for 25 cents a pound.

Fresh turkeys are making lordly efforts to outshine their feathered competitors not only in size but in price as well. Although they're 35 cents a pound, we can't forget how delectable a turkey dinner is.

Young capons have dropped to 35 cents a pound. They were 40 and 50. Here's one of the most delightful delicacies for sick people. Or, if you're planning them as an entree for a real banquet, why not prepare them a la Pondichery?

Draw, singe and truss a capon. Chop up finely a few onions. Fry them colorless in butter, add some rice and moisten to three times its height with beef stock, seasoning with cayenne pepper, salt and butter. Let boil, then cook in the oven for twenty minutes. Line a buttered saucepan with carrots, onions and slices of fat pork. Lay the capon on top and moisten with a little stock. Let this reduce entirely, then add more moistening and a bunch of parsley.

Peaches Few and Poor.

When the capon is done strain the stock, remove the fat and add it to the capon to keep it warm. Reduce the skimmed stock with veloute sauce, curry, saffron and powdered sweet Spanish peppers. Dress the rice on the bottom of a dish. Lay the capon on top and cover it with a third of the sauce, serving the other two-thirds in a separate sauce boat.

The last of the peaches are making a brave stand today, but we mustn't let our sympathies run away with us. If you want to keep fond peach memories, refrain from those on the market now.

Following the fall career of lima beans has been interesting. They had such a humble beginning this summer, but with the first heavy rains and cool spells they began to soar. Twenty-five, 35, 40 and now—50 cents a quart.

The little spring onions on the market with their fragile look and sweet aroma are making feeble efforts to introduce a suggestion of spring. They're selling three bunches for 10 cents.

Fairy Tale Gives A Tip in Making New House of Old

One way to terrorize the architect if you're about start your fall building program is to tell him naively that there are a number of features about the home you will design yourself.

The architect, a practical-minded soul, will attempt to combat your cockeyed ideas with psychology. Don't annihilate him when he quietly shows that your dream plan is great, but fails to include a place for a stairway and it's too far a jump to the second story. Concede that point. But when it comes to railings, sinks, &c., see that you're the winning combatant. A reproduction of the delightful "animal parade" balcony railing on Gingerbread Castle of fairytale Hansel and Gretel, is adorable in either wood or iron work.

And what could be sweeter than building the sink to the floor with gay colorful tiles, with funny Quimper characters, in the manner of the old-style Cuban stoves that held the charcoal fires!

College Women Define Etiquette

"No Nice Girl Brags About Late Hours."

Seattle (AP).—Coeds at the University of Washington shouldn't go wrong on campus etiquette. A book written under auspices of the Associated Women Students informs the young lady it is a "nice gesture to flip the handle of the automobile door open for the gentleman—especially if he's outside in a downpour." And it also advises "no nice girl brags about not quite beating the milkman home."

Defending Against a Squeeze.

"I hoped you'd lead a low diamond to the second trick. I could see the squeeze coming the moment the Dummy went down, and I was afraid you were going to put me on the spot," remarked one Bridge player to another the other day at Crockford's Club, New York, when he and his partner had engaged in the unprofitable pastime of unsuccessfully defending against a vulnerable Small Slam bid.

The remark had this much basis: After the opening trick was held by the diamond King, West, as a matter of good play, holding five of the suit, should have continued with a low card rather than the Queen, but back of it was the mistake made by East on the first play. Taking his statement at its face value, that he saw a squeeze coming from the moment the Dummy was spread on the table, then he, regardless of what his partner might or might not do, could have successfully defended against it by the simplest of all expedients—namely, winning the first trick and at once returning the suit. This simple play would have permitted him absolute freedom in discarding, since he would have had only one suit to defend. His partner might well have been charged with the responsibility of defending against the Declarer making any tricks in the diamond suit, as well as holding two spades, and if the partnership responsibility had been divided in this fashion, then the hand could have been defeated.

The complete hands, with the bidding, were:

South, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ 9 8 5 4 3 ♡ K 8 ◇ J 6 5 ♣ A K 8
♠ J 7 ♡ 10 7 6 5 ◇ K Q 4 3 2 ♣ J 7	N W E S	♠ Q 8 2 ♡ 9 ◇ A 10 9 7 ♣ 10 5 4 3 2
	♠ A K 10 ♡ A Q J 4 3 2 ◇ 8 ♣ Q 9 6

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	Pass
6♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is probably correct enough. After all, North's vulnerable two-notrump bid must have about as much strength as it shows. It would, of course, have been very unfortunate for the North and South partnership if North's strength had happened to be in diamonds rather than clubs, but the shortage in diamonds in the Declarer's hand proved to be no duplication.

As I said, West opened the diamond King. A low diamond was played from Dummy, East played the nine, and South, of course, dropped the singleton. Here, as I have already pointed out, East made his defensive error. The principle of sound defense is not only to make few mistakes yourself, but to so guide your partner's feet that he may not err. East and West are defending a contract of six. The first purpose is to defeat that contract. Therefore East should go up with the Ace of diamonds, and, if South has a diamond at all and he holds the trick, return the suit. When he failed to do this, South played the hand with faultless precision to squeeze out the twelve remaining tricks. After ruffing the Queen of diamonds, which West led to the second trick, the Declarer took five rounds of hearts and three rounds of clubs, winding up in the Dummy, and East found himself hopelessly squeezed. The Knave of diamonds in the Dummy forced him to retain the Ace, so he was compelled to give up one of his guards to the spade Queen. West at no time had protection in the spade suit and in consequence the Declarer won three spades, three clubs and six heart tricks to fulfill his contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If North, Third Hand, has opened the bidding with one club, which East rightly passes, and South then bids one spade, followed by passes by West and North, what should East now do?

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ A 8 3 ♡ 9 3 ◇ 10 5 4 ♣ K 10 7 6 5
♠ J 10 7 2 ♡ K Q J 8 2 ◇ J 9 8 2 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ 9 ♡ A 10 5 4 ◇ K Q 8 6 ♣ A J 8 3
	♠ K Q 6 5 4 ♡ 7 6 ◇ A 7 ♣ Q 9 4 3

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"Libra."

If September 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 2 to 2:45 p. m. and from 5 to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 to 10:20 a. m., from 4 to 4:30 p. m. and from 6:50 to 8 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will tend to slow you up both mentally and physically. You will not respond as quickly as usual to the mental tasks that fall to you, and athletic games that require speed and precision will not be as skillfully performed as should be the case. Do not expect attention and consideration from children.

The child born on this September 25 will quite possibly have few of the characteristics of either of its parents. It will be difficult to understand just how it came to be a member of that family. It will attain marked success at school, not in its studies, but in school activities. Quick to sense danger.

If September 25 is the date of your birth, you will live for your work and for your family. You are a person of comparatively few interests, but you are most enthusiastic about those that you do have. "Live and hope" might well be your motto, for no matter how black future prospects may look, you confidently feel that there is a rainbow just around the next corner. Yours is a buoyant nature and seldom do you get the blues. You are a person who does not like to go away from home and if separated for any length of time from your loved ones, you are inclined to become nervous and peevish. You enjoy the comforts and luxuries of home and for these reasons you do not care for travel. Little annoyances trouble you a great deal and you are inclined to magnify them beyond al reasonableness.

Born on September 25, you are a person who is never for a moment idle; you seem always to have something at hand to do. The women are wonderful housekeepers and they spend hours keeping things in order and planning comforts for their mates and children. A good many of these women seek work outside the home and make able teachers, understanding and helpful social workers and competent office help. Both the men and women go to great pains in the matter of their dress; they have an eye for color and usually dress in exceptionally good taste. Many of them are extravagant in this matter.

Successful people born on September 25:

Alfred Vail, inventor.

William Le B. Jenney, architect.

James M. Bailey, humorist.

Vinnie Ream Hoxie, sculptor.

Cities.

By Katherine W. Smith.

Stars like faintly twinkling lights
Of faery cities lost to man
Have made me wonder where it was

That lights of cities first began
To glow. What secrets hide behind
The brilliance of the mad display
Of cities now, what tales are told
From twilight to the break of day?

I watch the twinkling, eerie lamps
Of cities in the sky. I see
The clouds creep up, and darkness drifts
Between the faery lights and me.

Their Action Reveals Enterprise, Ambition, Relief, Head Says.

Denied a chance in their own communities, countless thousands of American women have "taken to the road" for adventure and opportunity.

There being no tangible acreage or industry to conquer, they have launched a pioneering movement which Morris Lewis, director of transient activities of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, believes will push back world frontiers of social and economic thinking.

"The mere fact they have taken to the road indicates enterprise and ambition and that is also true for men and boys," the relief director said yesterday.

Courage Revealed.

"The same high quality of courage shown by their forefathers in crossing the Atlantic, in pushing forward the frontiers of civilization until at last they reached the Pacific Coast, is animating today's nomadic army of jobless and homeless men and women who have left behind the things they know, to dare the things they know not of."

Mr. Lewis' statement is not the expression of poetic sentiment, but is based on findings of a survey made in the last year, in which the background of 36,000 nomads gathered in Pennsylvania was compared with the background of a similar number of dependent stay-at-homes.

"The homeless transients proved infinitely superior with regard to background, capabilities and intellectual force, to those of the superficially similar stay-at-home element," Mr. Lewis said.

Depression Swells Ranks.

"In March of this year, when trying to compile statistics on the number of transients—a thing which no one can estimate with accuracy—we did discover there has been a phenomenal increase in the number of women transients since the beginning of the depression."

Although popularly referred to as an "army," the transients move singly rather than in groups, Mr. Lewis has found. Occasionally they travel in pairs, but as a general rule they go alone or in family units.

State programs for handling the transient problem have been launched under Mr. Lewis' direction. Already 12 States have been organized through public agencies to provide transients food, shelter, medical care and opportunity for work. They will be given every inducement to settle in one place and Mr. Lewis believes that as many as 90 per cent of the number will avail themselves of the opportunity to become stabilized socially and economically.

Some Will Drift Always.

"Ten per cent of them are 'regulars' on the road. They always drifted and they always will. There is nothing we can offer that element," the director of transient activities said.

In May of this year Congress appropriated $500,000,000 to help the States with general unemployment relief needs and made special provisions for solving the needs of the transient population. By the end of October the Department of Transient Activities expects to have blanketed the United States with a constructive program of social and work relief for depression nomads.

"We will give to every man and woman his decent chance for comeback," said Mr. Lewis. "Perhaps the newest aspect of our work is furnishing medical aid. No man can take to the road under adverse circumstances without undermining his health. And in reestablishing psychological morale, sound physical health is all-important."

Fifteen per cent of the migratory population consists of boys under 21 years.

Many Unused to Work.

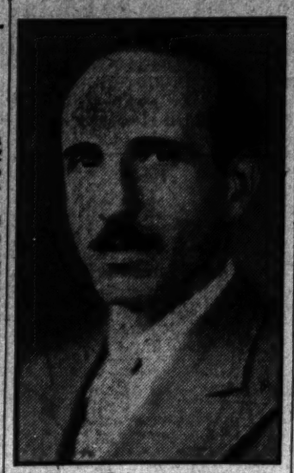
"Most of these boys have never worked," Mr. Lewis said. "When the depression started they were 17 or 18. They were ready to go to work and there was no work to do.

"The economic loss entailed is known to be tremendous, but we have no way of knowing what the social loss has been—through general waste of potentialities. And I don't know what may become of these boys if they don't get a job pretty soon."

Absence of antisocial reaction on the part of the migratory hordes was cited by Mr. Lewis as further proof of the high quality of citizenship of the majority.

Just Restless.

"Theirs is simply a restlessness, which goes with inability to express themselves in the community in which they live," he said. "They have gone out into the wide world to find that opportunity. There is nothing more for them to push into the Pacific and so they are pushing back spiritual frontiers. They are thinking along new social and economic lines and they are revealing to us new intangible worlds to be explored."



Underwood & Underwood.

director of transient activities of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, says 20 per cent of the nomads in America since the depression are women and that 90 per cent of them are persons of ambition.

Mr. Lewis, who is a native of Dubuque, Ia., was loaned to the Federal Administration by the National Association of Travelers Aid Societies. He has a background of 19 years in social welfare work in this country and Europe, and in 1920 served on the joint distribution committee in Poland, and later was relief director for Roumania. From 1925 to 1927, he directed the settlement in Cuba of thousands of European refugees stranded there when immigration laws of the United States forestalled their entry into this country.

Coeds Ousted After 45 Years

Gettysburg College Just Won't Have 'Em Around.

Gettysburg, Pa. (AP).—Men students get all the attention now at Gettysburg College—because there are no coeds. For the first time in 45 years the institution started its term without a woman enrolled. They aren't allowed any more.

Smartest Hairdress Is New Coquette Bob

Chicago (AP).—The National Hairdressers Association wound up its convention by selecting the new coquette bob as the smartest and newest thing of all the 1933 hairdresses.

Few women are so fortunate as to have the classic proportions so coveted. But no matter how faulty the figure, a cautious selection of clothes can disguise the details that Nature may have overlooked, and may lead you to more definite and distinctive style than the woman of better figure lines.

If you are short, wear clothes that give long slim lines. Avoid separate kirts and blouses, or trimming that tends to cut you in two in the middle. If you like stripes, limit yourself to vertical ones. Steer clear of large plaids or figures.

Soft frills or jabot will fill out a flat chest and thin shoulders. Today's fashionable full sleeves do a lot to flatter unattractive arms.

Be wary of form-fitting styles. The present "mermaid silhouette" is solely for those whose figures are slim and beautiful. Better that your clothes should fit a trifle too loosely than too snugly. Skirts that hide a multitude of shins are to be respected, as most shins are better covered.

When you buy, buy with an open mind and a critical eye. Flatter your figure with clothes that really become you, and don't flatter yourself that all of them will.

When Marketing For Steaks, Note Color, Moisture

Every woman would like to be sure of a choice cut of beef from the market when beef is to be part of the menu, but how many know how to determine what is a choice cut?

Bright red color and moist, juicy surface, when exposed to air, are a favorable indication. Cuts well mottled with fat are tenderest. The edges must be fat, firm, thick and straw-colored, with the suet dry, crumbly and white. These are characteristics of grain-fed animals.

Grass-fed beef is coarser, the meat is flabbier, the color is darker and the yellow fat edge is thin. Steer beef is heaviest and represents the highest quality. Heifer beef is lighter; cow beef is lean and light and yearling beef, while light, usually is tender.

Cold Water Face Wash Invaluable as Beautifier

If you haven't the courage to take a cold bath in the morning, at least give your face a cold shower. It stimulates the circulation and gives you a rosy glow from the inside, which is much more desirable than outside tinting.

The cold water will help to wake you up, too, and remove the unbecoming groggy look and puffiness under the eyes.

Before You Buy Your Coal Or Any Other Oil Burner Consult Us About the

McILVAINE OIL BURNER

Oil Heat Comfort

The McIlvaine method of home heating offers you unvarying automatic oil heat. The thermostatic control automatically governs the flow of both oil and air, gradually increasing or diminishing the flame as the temperature requires and maintaining an even heat in every room. Your house is not alternately overheated and chilled, because the McIlvaine flame is not turned on and off, or high and low. The flame is automatically adjusted to a size that will maintain an even temperature at all times with remarkably low oil consumption.

Let Us Actually Show You Why

McILVAINE

Gives Balanced Heat

It is the only burner having the correct heating principle, namely, positive electric graduated flame control to meet varying weather temperatures.

"There is absolutely no odor."
"Our floors are always warm."
"There are no disagreeable noises."
"We saved money heating with McIlvaine."
"The temperature of our house never varies, regardless of outside temperatures."
"Its operation is clean and sootless."
"We never have to call for service."
"It doesn't seem possible that an automatic device could be so mechanically perfect."
"We have used our burner seven years and it is working with the same perfect precision that it did when first installed."
"We never had a properly heated house before."

It is such statements as these that convince us that we are selling the only OIL BURNER on the market today which can be unreservedly guaranteed.

Let us tell you about this guarantee and the many other things about McILVAINE which prompt such praise.

Walt Mason, Himself

September Days.

September, fair September, the month too good to last! How fondly we remember Septembers of the past, that brought relief from weather that fried us all together, and tanned our hides like leather, and made us stand aghast. When we've been slowly baking for weary months on end, on summer mornings waking to see the sun ascend, intent on further frying of folks already sighing, and sweltering and dying. September seems a friend. When we've been madly swatting all flies that were in reach, and to the drugstore trotting for drinks at five cents each, when we've been broiled and toasted, and barbecued and roasted, where burning breezes coasted, September seems a peach. September is a daisy. September can't be beat; the days are calm and hazy, the nights are cool and sweet; our couches we encumber in hours of pleasant slumber, of dreams we have a number which make our bliss complete. There are some hints of winter, dead flowers and falling leaves, as Time, the tireless sprinter, along his pathway weaves; and winter is a hummer, a roughneck sort of comer, but we're so tired of summer that no one kicks or grieves.

Irish Free State Plans Own 'NRA'

Dail Will Be Requested to Finance Industries.

Dublin, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Establishment of a "miniature NRA" for the Irish Free State was believed planned today by President Eamon de Valera.

The president plans to introduce a bill in the Dail, opening this week, to establish a state credit association, with an initial capital of 5,000,000 pounds sterling. It is to finance new industries, especially any new industry expected to affect Irish industrial life.

The officials kept details of the scheme secret.

Why do we say "Always Luckies Please"? Well, one reason is that every Lucky is made of choice, ripe tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop. Another reason—Luckies are always round, firm, fully packed—with no loose ends to sputter and spark.

Careful examination and inspection by over 60 precision instruments and 17 alert scientists guarantee unfailing uniformity. That's why Luckies draw so easily, burn so evenly—always mild and smooth. And that's why—"Always Luckies Please!"

Capital's Subscription Dramas Available Early This Year—Hitler Has a Plan

Local Society Pledges Three October Plays

The American Theater Society, judging from the present outlook, will get away to a flying start this season on its series of six plays promised Washington subscribers at prices somewhat under the regular box-office scale.

Every present indication is that three of the society's subscription plays will be offered at the National Theater during the first month of the new season. This is in sharp contrast with last year's belated fulfillment of the society's plans.

First will come Lenore Ulric, in "Her Man of Wax," a new modern comedy, adapted by Julian Thompson from the German of Walter Hasenclever. The production is sponsored by Lee Shubert and will be the first play under his direction for the new season, opening at the National a week from tonight.

Mr. Shubert also will be responsible for the second play of the National's season, the week of October 9, when he will bring Pola Negri, famous star of the screen, to the Capital in "A Trip to Pressburg." This is not strictly a new play, having been produced by Mr. Shubert in Philadelphia last spring for a two-week engagement. Although it was highly acclaimed by the press, Mr. Shubert withdrew it, pending the time when he could secure Miss Negri for the stellar role, her services not then being available.

Helen Hayes Coming.

The third play to be definitely scheduled is the Theater Guild's production of Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland," starring Washington's own beloved star, Helen Hayes. This is set in for the week of October 23, thus seeming to move the road-show engagement of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of "Dinner at Eight" up to the week of October 15.

Miss Hayes has not been seen upon a Washington stage since her appearance in Ferenc Molnar's "The Good Fairy," which closed the National's season year before last. In the interim, she has been seen exclusively in the talking pictures.

"Mary of Scotland," it will be recalled, is by the same author who gave us "Elizabeth the Queen" and last year's Pulitzer Prize play, "Both Your Houses."

While no definite dates have as yet been determined, the American Theater Society of Washington feels that it can reasonably assure its subscribers that the schedule will be filled out with two more outstanding attractions—George M. Cohan in Eugene O'Neill's new play for the Theater Guild, "Ah, Wilderness," and Ina Claire in S. N. Berhman's "Biography," one of last season's noteworthy successes—and another new play of merit, yet to be selected.

Mrs. Sidney Thomas, local secretary, announces that subscription books for the season are still open in the society's office in the National Theater.

It is pleasant to know that following the evangelical Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, who finds the vaudeville stage a congenial pulpit for the dissemination of her unique concepts of a "four-square" religion, Helen Morgan, most provocative of the piano-sitters, will be the headlined artiste at Loew's Fox. This would be the week of October 6, Sister Aimee coming in this Friday.

German "Aryans" Recalled.

According to Berlin wires finding their way to this desk, "pure Aryan" German film stars will be ordered to return to Germany to participate in a "cultural rebirth" of the nation. At the moment this project is constituting the chief topic of discussion in the Film Reichsfachschraft, the controlling movie organization of the country.

Those who fail to heed the command to return at once to the Fatherland will be disciplined and probably barred from German films, if the film organization's plans are allowed to mature.

Simultaneously with this disquieting dispatch comes one from Hollywood stating that German members of the film colony regard with utmost concern the Berlin report that their early return to Germany will be demanded.

Among those who would be affected by the Film Reichsfachschraft's edict would be such distinguished artists as Marlene Dietrich, Dorothea Wieck, Ernst Lubitsch, Liane Haid and numerous others.

Would Oppose Move.

Miss Wieck, heroine of "Maedchen in Uniform" and under long-term contract to Paramount, indicated she would oppose the move. It is significant that Miss Dietrich, who made her early fame in German pictures, but for the past five years has appeared exclusively in American productions, did not visit her native country on her recent vacation abroad, but spent most of her time in France, whence she sailed for America last week. Lubitsch, one of the greatest of directors, already has taken steps to become an American citizen.

Production executives are frankly disturbed by news of the proposed order. "It is loaded with dynamite," said one who would not permit use of his name, "and if carried through may result in the barring of many American pictures from Germany."

Three hundred seats have been reserved for the last performance at the Earle Theater tonight by M. E. Horton, local distributor of the product which sponsors Phil Spitalny's radio broadcasts, for a theater party to be given 300 restaurateurs and merchants in the Capital. Directly after the performance, Maestro Spitalny and Mr. Horton will be hosts at a backstage party in honor of the 300 guests. The Spitalny Golden Rod Orchestra and vocalists will offer a special program and a buffet supper will be served. Prominent local stage and radio artists have been invited, together with members of the press. "Vas you dere, Sharlie?"

Miss Doyle's Luck.

In each of the letters Maxine Doyle, former mistress of ceremonies at the Earle Theater, wrote simultaneously to the Washington dramatic desks, she apparently outlined a different aspect of her great good fortune in having signed a long-term personal contract with Charles R. Rogers, whose productions are released through Paramount. To this department she wrote, in part, as follows:

"Yesterday morning, just a week to a day after I arrived, I signed my first movie contract. Mr. Rogers liked my test and thinks I've an entirely different personality from anyone else on the screen. He wants to groom me, so at first I'll just do bits. It's optional, of course. If I progress (and I'll do my darnedest and use my best Clifford Brooke diction) I'll get a new contract for five solid years.

"I feel all sorta funny! Everyone on the lot, even Lubitsch, told me what a swell test I made and all the possibilities I had. (Don't get me wrong. I still think I'm a dope!) I only hope I can live up to all that's expected of me.

"I know you're on my side, so please say a prayer for me. I've just got to make good. I'll try so hard."

And that about tells the story, not only of the opportunity that has come to a conscientious and gifted young girl, but of the spirit and determination that will convert that opportunity into an unequivocal success.

In the meantime the Warner executives have not as yet determined upon any permanent successor to Maxine. Gracie Barrie, serving as both mistress of ceremonies and as an individual act on the vaudeville bill from week to week, of course, commands the salary of an established artiste and is pointed for a Broadway production this fall. She has expressed a willingness to complete the six weeks for which she was originally engaged but no desire to continue longer. In the absence of General Manager Payette, Guy Wonders, who books the Earle's stage shows, stated Saturday night that Miss Barrie would be retained for the full six weeks, but after that—no telling.

Afterthoughts.

Afterthoughts on the week-end of showshopping: Marie Dressler so disrupted the morale of the NRA organization during her recent call that the chief could only get their clerks back to work by threats of dismissal . . . Although a flock of second generations are supposed to be in "This Day and Age," at Loew's Fox—Wallace Reid, jr., Eric Von Stroheim, jr., Carlyle Blackwell, jr., Bryant Washburn, jr., Neal Hart, jr., Fred Kohler, jr., and Frank Tinney, jr.—there is no possible way of identifying them unless you happen to know them personally . . . "Operator's Opera," the Vitaphone revuelet at the Earle, sets a new fashion and a new standard of excellence in the short subject field . . . Ethel Pastor, soprano with Phil Spitalny's Golden Rod Orchestra, takes D, above high C, easily . . . B flat is usually considered high enough for anybody and high C the ultima thule of vocalization . . . Miss Pastor, as you may have guessed, has a voice . . . Before "Torch Singer" was finally recorded for the master print, someone should have told Claudette Colbert the proper pronunciation of "inhospitable" . . . Which is not as in cuspidor, if you get the idea . . . The announcement the Sister Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton is making her first Washington appearance on Friday is in error . . . She was at the auditorium, doing a Billy Sunday, eight or ten years ago . . . Phil Lampkin's anniversary overture at the Fox is of sufficient intrinsic merit to get by without the politico-patriotic, flag-waving, finale . . . Col. E. A. Schiller and Felix Feist, of the Loew-M-G-M cohorts, are having a lovely time in town, coding with Deputy Administrator Rosenblatt . . . Today is the day . . . A movie code, or else!

It was interesting during a 6 o'clock commercial hour over the air last evening to hear the announcer expatiate upon "how to kill a cold in a jiffy."

Personally, we have never had a cold in the jiffy!

Final Choice From Among 7,000

This young actress will be the Alice in Paramount's picturization of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," being made for Christmas release. She is Charlotte Henry, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has had some slight experience on both stage and screen. Miss Henry is just five feet tall, weighs 104 pounds, has light brown hair, fair complexion, blue-green eyes and is said to be extraordinarily youthful in appearance. Seven thousand contestants sought the role of Alice, of whom 60 were given screen tests.

Gayety

"BETTY BOOP GIRLS," Jimmie Lake presents Hap "Pop-Eye" Freyer and Anne "Beautiful" Norton, supported by Alice Du Val, Bee Baxter, Aileen Dale, Nora Murray, Milt Bronson, Lew White, Freddie Walker, Harry Beasley, Darlin' Lucky, Joe Moss, Boots Rush and Charley LaVine. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

"Beautiful" came, the fans saw, and they both either conquered or were conquered when Ann Norton staged her "coming out" party yesterday afternoon at Jimmie Lake's temple of glee, glamour and girls.

So completely devastating was she in her two specialty numbers that even the consummate clowning of Hap "Pop-Eye" Freyer, and the other members of the troupe, had to take second place after this lissom miss undulated into the spotlight.

Without any one but the guest artists, it would have been a swell show, but with the good Col. Lake's hand-picked supporting cast and ballet, "Betty Boop Girls" (don't ask for an explanation of the title!) is grand burlesque.

Especial mention is due the dancers for the "Black and White," the "Three Musketeers," and the "Skeleton" routines, no more commendable, however, than the many other skits and specialties with which the bill is repletely studded.

A detailed recital of the activities of the principals in this festival of foolishness would be superfluous at this time, owing to the already wide popularity of Alice Du Val, Nora Murray, Darlin' Lucky, Charlie La Vine, Joe Moss and most of the others. They are all "in form."

U. S. Vessel Hit In Double Crash

Istanbul, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Greek cargo boat Atlas crashed into the Exilonia, American export line, last night in the Bosphorus, then backed off and steamed into the Black Sea, where she struck another Greek freighter.

A Greek sailor was reported seriously injured.

Noted Racers To Vie in Gold Cup Regatta

Roosevelt Will Watch Motor Boat Contest From Sequoia.

Speed and pageantry, with President Roosevelt aboard the yacht Sequoia, a spectator on at least one occasion, will feature the President's Cup Regatta, which opens here Thursday night.

Under the direction of J. A. Remon, general chairman, an extra day has been added to the 1933 event, which will attract noted motor boat racers.

The principal event will be the 15-mile power boat race for the gold cup, sponsored by President Coolidge in 1926. Three heats will decide the winner. All motor boat contests will be held in Georgetown Channel.

The regatta will open at 8 p. m. with a swimming meet in the pool of the Shoreham Hotel. Power boats are scheduled to start Friday noon. One heat of the Gold Cup race will be held Friday and two Saturday.

Friday night a pageant of brilliantly lighted boats will depict Venice in the days of the doges, gliding down Georgetown Channel to Hains Point, then up the Washington Channel to the Corinthian Yacht Club.

Sunday, the last day, will be devoted to rowing events in Washington Channel.

A banquet will be held at the Press Club Saturday night. Cups and other prizes for power boat winners and swimmers will be awarded at the dinner.

Limit Urged In Kidnap Plot

Heiress' Mother Demands Prosecution of Couple in Spoiled Wedding.

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin Batcheller, mother of Mrs. Helen Daugherty, heiress, whose church wedding plans were upset by a kidnap plot, said tonight she hoped the couple held for the crime would be prosecuted severely.

"We wish those two given the limit of the law," she said. "Kidnapers and extortionists should not be around loose. Is no home to be sacred in this country?"

A graduate nurse, Miss Nicholina Antionette DePalma, and a filling station manager, James Medley, were held on charges of attempted extortion in connection with the kidnap plot and probably will be arraigned on Federal charges.

Are you sure your car is insured to YOUR best advantage?

Is it insured in a company which is stronger today than in 1929; which is noted for prompt settlements and which has saved its policyholders 20% every year for 21 years?

LET'S suppose you drive a Cadillac, a Packard or a Lincoln. Last year you could have saved $14 by insuring it in Liberty Mutual. Or, suppose you drive a Ford, or a Chevrolet. You could have saved $12.50 or more, depending upon the kinds and amounts of insurance carried.

How does Liberty Mutual make these savings?

Liberty will not insure reckless drivers. This reduces accident losses.

Liberty sells direct through its own full-time, salaried representatives. This cuts out high commissions and reduces the cost of selling by two-thirds.

Liberty then pays the resulting profits to its policyholders in the form of dividends, instead of distributing these profits to stockholders.

For 21 years Liberty Mutual has been noted for prompt and fair settlements. 99% of its accidents are settled out of court. In case of accident you merely telephone the nearest Liberty Mutual office and seldom ever hear of your case again.

Liberty Mutual has earned substantial profits and added to its reserves every year of the depression. The company is stronger today than in 1929. Ask your banker's opinion of the financial statement of Liberty Mutual shown opposite.

Liberty Mutual is under the strict supervision of the Insurance Department of the State of Massachusetts which approves its financial statement every 6 months and requires the most literal statements of truth in its advertisements and literature—also in all states where the company transacts business.

A saving of $12.50 to $14 is surely welcome in these times, and it becomes even more attractive when you consider that Liberty Mutual offers you everything you could ask for in the way of financial strength and prompt settlements.

Phone or visit Liberty Mutual's Washington office. Or, send the coupon below for booklet entitled: "How You May Safely Reduce the Cost of Your Automobile Insurance." Liberty Mutual salesmen are not allowed to annoy you with aggressive selling.

Consider these SAVINGS

made by Washington car-owners on complete Personal Injury, Property Damage and Fire and Theft insurance. These savings were made on new cars—old cars slightly less. Send coupon for exact quotation.

A's Pound Crowder, Trim Nats, 11-4, as Grove Gets Credit for 24th

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THERE seems to be some doubt about the popularity of Bill Terry among the baseball scriveners of New York who are now reporting that Mr. Terry is making a very strenuous effort to be nice.

The Giants' manager, it seems, has lately learned the error of his ways and, under the coaching of gentlemen interested in the saleability of his ghost stories, has reformed. He will now put an occasional arm around an occasional shoulder of a baseball writer and inquire, very generally, as to the general health and deportment of the scribe.

But time was, according to my informant, when Mr. Terry regarded baseball writers generally as so much excess baggage on the Western trips, so much waste matter cluttering up the clubhouse. Mr. Terry's kindly advances thus are meeting with a very warm reception.

Not a Sell-Out.

I am informed, furthermore, that the world series in New York will not be a sell-out. Despite their sensational conquest of the pennant, the Giants have failed to capture the imagination of New York fans, who for the last seven years have essentially been Yankee fans.

The absence of Babe Ruth from a New York series is not calculated to boost the attendance in Gotham, where the Babe's followers look upon the Giants as merely another National League club.

And, I am reminded, their estimation of National League clubs has not been raised by the fact that the Yankees bumped off the National pennant winners 12 straight games in world series warfare.

The Giants, however, this year have rated something that the Yankees have always failed to obtain—the keys to the city. Mayor O'Brien presented Bill Terry and his men the proverbial keys to Manhattan when they returned triumphant from the West, but there is an explanation. Charles Stoneham, owner of the Giants, is much closer to Tammany than Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, so, perhaps, the Giants' civic recognition can be discounted.

Berth Awaiting Harris.

Bucky Harris was looking before he leaped from his job of managing the Detroit Tigers two days ago and he will not be among the unemployed next season. There's an American League berth waiting for the former boy manager of the Nats and the announcement of his new post is expected to be made following the conclusion of the world series.

The Detroit job was Harris's if he chose to retain it in 1934 and Bucky told this department last mnoth that he expected to remain in baseball for several years. Thus the conclusion is obvious. There's a job waiting for Harris around the league, and the possibilities center on two cities.

Chicago and Boston are the two American League clubs most likely to undergo a change of management, but Owner Comiskey has already said that Lew Fonseca is a good enough manager for the White Sox. Which simmers the situation down to Boston where Bucky Harris is most likely to land.

The only factor auguring against Harris' appointment to the Red Sox post is the strongly Catholic leanings of Boston fans, where the present incumbent, Marty McMnaus, is a coreligionist, as is Joe Judge, regarded in many quarters as McManus' successor.

Vines Not Signed, Tilden Declares

Auteuil, France, Sept. 24 (AP). Bill Tilden guardedly denied persistent reports today that Ellsworth Vines, former American and British champion, already had signed a professional contract with him for 1934.

"Vines is unsigned as far as I know," Tilden said, "but I will be willing to accept a contract any time he is ready to sign."

The newspaper, Paris Midi, close to Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa, French professionals, said today Tilden already had Vines' signed contract in his pocket.

Detroit Pilot Speculation Links Ruth

Experts Feel Babe May Be Named; Ruel Is Mentioned.

DETROIT, Sept. 24 (AP).—The biggest name in modern baseball stood out today in speculation as to Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris' successor as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

From newspaper experts down to the bleacher fans there was one answer to the question as to who will direct Ty Cobb's old team next year. It was:

"Babe Ruth—if they can get him."

Frank J. Navin, owner of the club, who regretfully accepted Harris' resignation yesterday, had no comment to make on the popular choice of the home-run king. He neither confirmed nor denied that he hopes to bring the Babe to Detroit, and indicated that it might be the middle of winter or later before a new manager is named.

Others Are Mentioned.

cropped into the discussions of a

In addition to Ruth, other names successor to Harris, and the best informed circles rated them about in this order:

Del Baker, assistant to Harris this year, who, as manager of the Tiger "farm" at Beaumont, Tex., developed much of the best Detroit material of recent years.

Would Revive Color.

Plenty of potential complications stood in the way, of swinging a deal for Ruth, but all commentators saw in the king of swat a chance to return to the Tigers the color which was associated with the team in the old Cobb days.

Steve O'Neill, manager of the Toledo Mudhens.

Herold N. (Muddy) Ruel, St. Louis Browns catcher, who also has caught for Washington, Detroit and Boston. Ruel and Navin had a long talk this afternoon, presumably about the job. Afterward, Ruel said that he would like to manage the Tigers.

Vergez' Baby Dead; Wife Seriously Ill

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 24 (AP).—Mrs. Johnny Vergez, wife of the third baseman of the New York Giants, was reported in a serious condition at the Merritt Hospital here today after an infant daughter died at birth.

The Vergez' first child, a boy, died about a year and a half ago, a month after he was born. Mrs. Vergez was the former Miss Helen Porterfield, of Oakland.

Cronin Sees Base Speed As Nat Aid

Feels Washington Will Outsmart Giants on Paths in Series.

"THE trouble with you newspaper fellows is," said Manager Joe Cronin yesterday, "that you all seem to follow the same line—fielding, hitting and pitching— and overlook side features that are mighty important when you try to compare us and the Giants in the coming world series.

"For instance, take gambling on the bases. I haven't seen a word written about this and yet it was the fact that we took some chances on the runways—a lot of 'em—and got away with 'em in Detroit and Chicago on the last Western trip that let us clinch the title last week.

"We've got a lot of speed on our club and a lot of brains. And we expect in the world series to take advantage of every lapse of the opposing catcher or infielders. I think we'll outsmart and outspeed the Giants on the bases and, in so doing will make some 'breaks' for ourselves—and you know how important the 'breaks' are in a short series."

"I don't know what the records show," said Cronin, as he went out to take fielding practice before the game, "but I believe that we have made as many double-steals as any club in the league. I know that these have won several games for us, either directly or indirectly—indirectly because a successful double-theft always seems to upset the opposing team. And, don't forget, we'll be battling on those bases against the Giants, too, the same as we will in hitting, fielding and pitching. You can't overlook this item."

Yeah, Joe, but your boys can't steal first, you know.

Plenty of hitting practice is ahead of the Nats, for Pilot Cronin has ordered all hands to report today, tomorrow and Wednesday at 1:30 for lengthy stick drills. No league games are scheduled, these days.

Pitcher Bill McAfee, recently sent to Rochester by the Nats, visited his former mates before yesterday's game and congratulated every man on the team on the club's pennant victory.

Prim was given a big hand when he fanned Cochrane and Foxx in succession to end the sixth.

Higgins was credited with the best play of the game when he took Boken's bad hopper almost directly over third and made the killing at first in the seventh.

Lefty Grove was credited with yesterday's victory, despite the fact that his team had a big lead when he relieved McKiethan starting the fifth. Rules say that the starter must toil five innings to get credit for triumphs, although the official scorer is given some latitude in making a ruling. It was decided that, as Grove was sent in as a protective measure, he was entitled to the victory.

Contest Fans Play Percentages in Arranging Run-Scoring Innings in World Series Opener

THE bulk of the fans are playing the percentages in The Post's world series contest and providing for scores by both the Nats and the Giants in the first two innings of the first game at New York, according to the entries reaching the Baseball Contest Editor.

Realizing that the batting strength of both clubs is concentrated at the top and in the center of the batting order, contest fans are predicting, as a rule, that both the Nats and the Giants will do some of their run-making, if any, in these early innings.

There is another school of thought among the fans, according to the Baseball Contest Editor's mail. Hundreds of other fans are predicting a series of scoreless innings during the early part of the game and until the hitters of each club have had an opportunity to look over the enemy's pitching for a second or third time.

Giants Take First, Lose 2d to Braves

Win, 6-5, in 10 Innings; Drop Finale, 5-2.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Giants had to go 10 innings to defeat the Boston Braves, 6-5, in the first game of a double-header today, but Boston won the second in five frames, 5 to 2, by slamming Glenn Spencer at the start. The second game was halted by darkness.

Wright Meets Koshover Tonight

Is Underdog in Fort Bout; Manley and Furr in Semifinal.

A DISINCLINATION to punch, a woeful lack of "killer instinct" and inability to absorb stiff punches with impunity on the part of Maxie Koshover are believed by many to presage his downfall at the hands of Carey Wright in their eight-round main bout at Fort Washington tonight. Koshover's supporters claim he is too smart to punch when not necessary and that he can take it as well as the next man when called upon. Therein lies a controversy of the sort that results in horse races—or prize fights.

Koshover admittedly is the better boxer and is generally conceded an overwhelming edge in the bout because of his ability to outsmart the usual run-of-the-mine local fighter. Wright remains more or less an unknown quantity despite his 19 consecutive wins and 1 draw, which were clocked up at the expense of carefully selected opposition.

Short Range Hope.

As in the case of his stablemate, Roddy Davis, against Koshover last week, Wright's only chance is believed to lie in getting in close and keeping up a steady fire at Cincinnati Maxie. At long range, however, Koshover figures to convert Wright into the same type of catcher he made Davis—and perhaps more so—as Wright is not as good a boxer as Davis.

Roy Manley, southpaw sleep-producing artist, will battle with Phil Furr in a six-round semifinal. The card will be rounded out by fours offering Doug Swetnam against Soldier Van Heuren, Bill Howell opposed to Lu Jameson, Young Doro and Joe Green and Pete Lopez vs. Soldier Jim Larkin.

10,000 See Cubs, Reds Split Double-Header

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs ran into Benny Frey at his best this afternoon, and so they were forced to split a double-header with the last-place Cincinnati Reds. After winning the first game, 7 to 1, behind Root's good pitching, the Bruins were blanked by Frey in the second game, 1 to 0.

Donlin, Former Diamond Ace, Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24 (AP).—Mike Donlin, 56, famous player with the New York Giants from 1904 to 1910, died of a heart attack at his home here today.

In the 12 years Donlin played in the National League he never failed to hit at a .300 clip. In the world series of 1905 it was the combination of Christy Mathewson's pitching and Donlon's batting that gave John McGraw's club victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Donlin began his career with Santa Cruz, Calif., in 1899. He later joined the St. Louis Cardinals as an outfielder and utility first baseman. He was sold to Cincinnati in 1903 and the Reds sent him to the Giants in 1904.

"Turkey Mike" was captain of the Giants from 1906 to 1910, when he quit baseball to go on the vaudeville stage.

He returned to baseball in 1914 with the Boston Braves, later was sold to Pittsburgh and finished his baseball career in 1916.

Donlin had been in ill health for several years, physicians describing his ailment as "athletic heart."

Donlin married Rita Ross, an actress, who survives. He was born in Peoria, Ill.

Nats to Attend Opera.

Maria Verdi, first and youngest lady impresario in Washington, an enthusiastic baseball fan, has reserved for the Washington Ball Club choice seats for the opera performance at the auditorium next Sunday. The players will be introduced to the audience.

There is a suspicion that this notice was written by a New York press agent who secretly cheers the giants, unbeknown to Maria Verdi.

Macks Score Three Runs In First

Are Another Step Nearer Clinching Third Place; Cochrane Leader.

Prim and Chapman Try Hand at Pitching; Regulars Rest.

PHILADELPHIA'S Athletics continued to withstand recognition of the new American League dynasty when they subjected the newly crowned Nats to the indignation of an 11-4 beating yesterday at the ballyard in a game that was about as important to Washington as Article X of the Khurdish constitution, if any.

On top of that, they heaped further insult on our best pitcher, General Alvin Crowder, who is about as unnecessary to the Nats' cause against the Giants in the world series as their trunk of bats.

Right off the bat, as it were, the A's scored three runs off Crowder in the first inning, and the 4,000 fans in the stands suffered many unhappy thoughts at the prospect of Crowder in yesterday's form against the Giants.

Cronin Not Alarmed.

But the general is known to the baseball trade as an artistic loafer and disinclined to extend himself when the stakes are unimportant so Manager Joe Cronin was not unduly alarmed and is still hewing to his program that calls for Crowder to face Hubbell in the first game of the series.

To the Athletics, however, the game represented one more step in the direction of third-place money of approximately $500 per player and they introduced no less than Lefty Grove to the Nats along about the fifth inning to protect what was then an 8-3 lead. Grove, getting credit in the record books for winning the game increased his season's total victories to 24 as against 7 defeats.

Prim, Chapman Inserted.

Before the pastiming was concluded, Manager Cronin had grasped the grand oportunity to give his regulars a rest and the newly-acquired southpaw, Ray Prim, took a three-inning turn on the mound with fairish results. Ray Chapman, the Rochester recruit, still marked by the sheen of his newness in the majors, followed with a two-inning shift in the box for the Nats.

Connie Mack displayed his contempt of the Nats' title at the outset when he sent to the box young Gim McKeithan, late of Duke University, to opose the great Crowder and although McKeithan allowed three runs in four innings, the damage done to Crowder gave him a comfortable lead.

Three Runs in First.

They crowded Crowder at the outset and biffed him for three runs in the first inning when Mickey Cochrane smashed a double into left field after Bishop and Cramer had felt Crowder out with a pair of singles. This Cochrane was a menace all day, maknig three consecutive hits, all doubles.

The Nats picked up a run in the second inning when Cronin doubled and Travis got the first of his three hits, a single, but when the A's piled into Crowder for four large and luscious runs in the third inning, it was all over, including the day's shouting.

Score Four More.

Dor-A Routs Leaders, 10 to 2

Long Yields but 3 Hits; Bartoo's Triple, 3 on, Clinches Verdict.

Griffs Can Tie by Win Over St. Joe; Linen Team Triumphs.

POUNDING two pitchers for 12 hits and a 10-2 victory over the league-leading Stanton Cleaners, Dor-A yesterday prolonged the drawn-out Capital City League race with one of the most stunning sandlot upsets of the decade. The result virtually assured Griffith-Blue Coals of a tie with the Stantons for the second-half honors.

It was sweet revenge for the Mount Rainier tossers. It was the Stantons who squelched Dor-A's hopes for the first-half pennant after the latter had won six consecutive games. Dor-A is hopelessly out of the running for second-half honors.

Arlie Long, lean, limber Dor-A moundman, checked the fast-traveling Stantons with three safeties. After getting off to a shaky start, he blanked his opponents in the last seven innings. Bartoo's triple, with the bases loaded in the sixth, clinched the decision for Dor-A.

To tie the Stantons, the Griffs must trim St. Joseph's, whom they have not met in the second series. Should they do this, they would then meet the Stantons for the second-half pennant, and the winner of this game will play a three-game series with Miller Furniture Co. for the league title.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Not to start an argument, but why is it said to be unlucky to light three cigarettes on a match? One theory is that it originated in the old Russian Church, another has it that it was born in the World War trenches.

According to the former, it was a practice to light three altar candles in funeral services with one burning taper. Hence to perform any similar act—such as lighting three cigarettes with one match—was considered sacrilegious, and bad luck was in store for any one who did. The World War theory is that men in the trenches at night might light one or two cigarettes from a single match without the flame burning long enough for an enemy soldier to take aim and fire—but lighting three cigarettes from the same match gave the marksman ample time to aim and hit his mark.

Because of this any soldier who was careless enough to light a third cigarette, or to accept the third light, was inviting bad luck in the form of a rifle bullet from the other side of No Man's Land.

These are just theories of the three-on-a-match superstition. Do you know any others?

Indian Spring Golfers Eliminated in Upset

Rolling Road Overcomes Favorites

Columbia, Chevy Chase Also Win; Hillendale Swamps Manor.

INDIAN SPRING COUNTRY CLUB, 1931 champions and heavy favorites to win the title, was eliminated in the second round of the Maryland State Golf Association team championship matches yesterday by the Rolling Road team at the Catonsville, Md., course.

Triumphing in the biggest upset since the start of the competition last week, Rolling Road scored 30 points to 24. Roger Peacock, Maryland champion, and Dr. Larry Otell, of Indian Spring, scored only 3½ points as against 5½ for their opponents, Alec Taylor, pro, and Dave Crook, Middle Atlantic champion.

Chevy Chase Pressed.

Columbia remained in the running for the championship by trimming Baltimore Country Club at the former's course, 31 to 23, with Fred McLeod, pro, and Norman Frost, leading the attack with 9 points.

Chevy Chase had a close shave with Annapolis Roads, winning by 27½ to 26½, while Manor was swamped by Hillendale by 42½ to 11½, with MacMaster and Caldwell scoring 8 points.

Pegler

Nominates LoneSelector of Giants as Flag Winners for Terry's Dinner.

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—For guest of honor at the dinner, which Will Terry plans to give for the baseball experts after the world series so that he may chide them for guessing the Giants out of the National League race last April, there should be only one nomination. This would be Mr. Mike Houston, the only expert who selected the Giants to win and thereby exceeded the optimism of Mr. Terry himself, who was paid well to guess high, but nevertheless only dared reckon that his ball club would finish there or thereabouts.

Mr. Houston is now the sport editor of the Times-Dispatch in Richmond, Va., but he was a baseball expert for the New York Evening Post when he made the prediction which is now making a famous man of him.

Promotion Explained.

Incidentally, Mr. Houston is a bit miffed by suggestions that his present status of sport editor in a minor league is inferior to that of staff expert on a major league paper and would be pleased to have that matter cleared up. As the job of manager in Minneapolis or Newark may represent a promotion to a ball player who is only a fill-in hand on a major league team, so the job of sport editor in a minor league city in many cases excels that of staff writer in New York or Chicago.

This will explain how it is that a ball player or a journalist may be promoted downward or upward, improving his position and pay in appar

Four Labor Groups Meet During Week

A. F. of L. Organizations Gather Here for Sessions.

Four labor organizations, vanguard of those who will be in Washington October 2, for the American Federation of Labor convention, will meet here this week. They are the Building Trades, Metal Trades, Union Label Trades and National Board of Trade Claims.

The executive council of the Building Trades will hold sessions today and tomorrow, preliminary to its convention opening Wednesday at the Washington Hotel. The 55 delegates will represent more than 1,000,000 workmen.

The National Board of Trade Claims, organization of building union heads and contractors, will meet tomorrow morning at the American Federation of Labor Building.

The metal workers will meet at the Willard Wednesday and the label trades group will open their meeting there Thursday.

Jurisdictional disputes, which have tied up work at the new I. C. C. and Labor Buildings, and threaten to delay the entire Federal construction program here, will be discussed at all four conventions.

Labor leaders are making elaborate plans to welcome more than 800 delegates who will attend the American Federation of Labor session opening next Monday. Frank Lee is chairman of the arrangements committee and is aided by Edward J. Roche, Frank J. Coleman, Richard Dickson, Clyde Mills, Edward Tune and John Botts.

Catholic, National Universities Start

Schools Resume Classes With Ceremonies.

National and Catholic Universities were ready for resumption of classwork today.

The forty-fifth academic year of Catholic University was opened formally yesterday with solemn high mass in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. The services were conducted by the Most Rev. James H. Ryan, Bishop-elect of Modra and rector of the university.

National University will enter its sixty-sixth year today with opening exercises at 6:30 p. m. Dr. Hayden Johnson, president of the District Board of Education and chancellor of the university, will deliver the address.

Other speakers will include Chief Justice Fenton W. Booth of the United States Court of Claims; Associate Justice Oscar R. Luhring and Associate Justice Peyton Gordon, of the District Supreme Court; Conrad Syme and Dr. Charles Pergler, of the faculty.

Welfare Group Meets Today

Subsistence Committee Plans to Place Poor Families on Farms.

The National Advisory Committee on Subsistence Homesteads, which plans to take poor families from industrial areas and establish them on farms where they can support themselves, will hold its first meeting tomorrow in the Interior Building.

Several Washingtonians have been asked to serve on the committee, W. A. Julian, Treasurer of the United States and chairman of the decentralization of industry committee of the Business Advisory Council, is one of them.

Dr. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, also will attend. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Louis Brownlow, former District Commissioner, and now director of the Public Administration Clearing House, also will be present.

Elks' Rites Honor Henry L. Johnson

Monument Service Held by Colored Lodge.

Memorial services for Henry Lincoln Johnson, former Republican national committeeman from Georgia, were held yesterday at the monument in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery erected to his memory by colored Elks, under auspices of the New York lodge which bears his name.

S. D. Walton, Corona, Long Island, said the invocation. The master of ceremonies, Capt. Sylvester B. Epps, exalted ruler of Columbia Lodge, was introduced by C. Tiffany Tolliver. Visitors were welcomed by W. B. Harris, exalted ruler of Morning Star Lodge. The memorial service, including the Thanatopsis, was conducted by the Henry Lincoln Johnson Lodge.

J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler, eulogized Col. Johnson, who served until his death as grand legal advisor of the Elks fraternity. A wreath was laid at the foot of his monument by Clara Gibbons, of Apex Temple. Mrs. Johnson and her sons, Henry Lincoln, jr., and Dr. Peter Johnson, attended.

D. C. Boys Club Opens Registration in Week

Registration for the fall and winter season at the Boys Club of Washington, 230 C street northwest, will open next Monday, according to Charles M. Fyfe, director. New members will be admitted and the old members will reregister.

About 1,250 boys were registered during the past year. A larger number is expected this winter.

Helen Spire Dies From Hurt Received in Riding Accident

MISS HELEN SPIRE.

Miss Helen Spire, 19, of 503 Baltimore boulevard, Riverdale, Md., died yesterday at Sibley Hospital of a fractured skull.

Miss Spire, a senior at Maryland University, and a Delta Xi Sorority member, was riding with a party of six, including her father, Dr. W. B. Spire, near Laurel, Md., Saturday, when her horse slipped and threw her on a pavement.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at her home. Burial will be in Lincoln Cemetery.

Renewed Police Search For Girl, 16, Sought

Police last night were asked to renew their search for Dorothy J. Kirby, 16, missing since Tuesday.

Her mother, Mrs. Lucille Kirby, 1700 A street southeast, said she feared foul play. She said Dorothy was red-haired, attractive, five-feet-two and weighed 125 pounds.

Police Battle Causes Ouster

Melvin Creel Loses Coat and Gun in Alleged Gang Attack.

Policeman Melvin P. Creel, at Sixth Precinct, was suspended from duty yesterday following a scuffle at Fourteenth and S street northwest, in which he was said to have been "ganged" and his gun and coat taken from him.

Inspector James Beckett ordered the suspension.

A call to the Second Precinct said a policeman was in trouble. They found the gun and coat, but Creel had been taken to the station by a friend.

According to police none of the witnesses could relate coherently what happened. Creel said he was attacked by a group and his coat torn from him. He said he dropped the gun trying to defend himself.

World Near War, Dr. Sizoo Asserts

Christianity Termed Only Insurance for Peace.

"The world is on the verge of another war," declared Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, preaching yesterday.

"But if we all were Christianized there would be no bristling of bayonets and men would not be arming themselves.

"We would live in serenity on intangibles, for we are learning one lesson today and that is the things which satisfy are not tangible. When God, through sorrow, has taught this Nation the value of intangibles, a better day will come."

Marshall B. Crank, 75, Dies Near Lynchburg

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 24 (Spl.).—Marshall B. Crank, 75, died Saturday at his home near Forest, Bedford County. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary F. Crank; a son, Dr. G. O. Crank, Maurertown, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. George Rew, of Newport News; three sisters and two brothers.

Woman Takes Poison.

Bessie Mason, 35, of 907½ Fifth street northwest, attempted suicide yesterday by drinking poison, police said. She was admitted to Gallinger Hospital.

Child, 7, Killed; 2 Near Death In Traffic Toll

16 Injured, Five Seriously, as Bus, Autos Meet in Triple Crash.

Henry Collidge Leo, 7, Chinese, 1915 Eighteenth street northwest, ran in front of a taxi driven by Henry Slade, 2248 Twelfth street nortwest, on Seventeenth street, near T, northwest.

Skull Fractured.

The child was the son of Henry Leo, secretary of the Hip Sing tong.

Elmer Barnett, 21, 1610 A street northeast, was in Emergency Hospital with a possible fractured skull after his car turned over near Accotink, Va.

William Bresnalian, 2207 First street northwest, and William Heine, 6501 Third street northwest, were taken to Providence Hospital after their car crashed into a pole at Suratsville, Md. Bresnalian was in serious condition with a possible fractured spine and skull.

Meet Head-on.

A New York-Washington bus collided head-on with a car driven by Henry J. Harze on a sharp curve. A second car driven by Anthony Flanagan, Bryn Mawr, Pa., carshed into the wreckage.

Eleven bus passengers, none from Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Harze and their children were taken to a Langhorne, Pa., hospital.

Seal Queries School Head In Milk Probe

Senate Committee Agent Searches for Dairy Propaganda.

The spread of milk consumption propaganda through the District schools will be discussed today by Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate Milk Investigating Committee, and Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou.

"I am anxious to know," Mr. Seal said last night, "whether it is true that children are taken on inspection tours of only National Dairy Products Corporation affiliates."

His decision to inquire into the relation of the National Dairy Products Corporation to milk consumption propaganda came when he discovered the names of two school officials, Dr. Ballou and Assistant Superintendent Robert L. Haycock, on the stock lists of the dairy concern.

"I want to know when Dr. Ballou and Mr. Haycock acquired the stock," he said. "I am also anxious to learn whether there are special educational lectures given on the health qualities of milk. If they are, I want to know whether they are given by teachers or representatives of the dairies."

Band at Boys Club Seeks 15 Members

Wanted, tooters!

This, figuratively speaking, is the sign being displayed at the Northeast Boys Club, 1663 Kramer street northeast. H. J. Smith, formerly of the United States Marine Band, is organizing what he declares will be the "best boys band in Washington." The band has 15 members. The number will be increased to 30.

Veterans Hear National Heads

Commanders of D. A. V., V. F. W. Will Address Meeting Tonight.

National commanders of two large veterans organizations will address a meeting of District of Columbia veterans at 8:15 o'clock toonight in the Interior Department Auditorium.

Joseph W. McQueen, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, and James Van Zandt, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are the speakers.

District veterans are invited. Plans for legislative activities in behalf of veterans' compensation, in anticipation of the convening of Congress, will be discussed.

Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada; Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, and William Kehoe, first vice commander of District of Columbia Department, American Legion, are expected.

Planning Body Will Tour City

Baltimore Convention to Inspect U. S. Agencies, Parks and Roads.

Washington will be host October 11 and 12 to national planning and civic bodies that will open a joint conference in Baltimore, October 9. Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association, has invited the National Conference on City Planning to inspect Federal agencies here.

Delegates of the two groups will arrive the evening of October 11 and attend a Federal City dinner at the Cosmos Club. Next day they will visit planning offices, attend a luncheon conference on emergency construction in parks, forests and public roads, and make a planning tour of this area.

Delano will speak on Federal planning activities in the NRA program. "City and Regional Planning in Depression and Recovery" will be the subject of Alfred Bettman, president of the other organization.

The civic association has copyrighted a handkerchief map of Washington and the surrounding region. Sales proceeds will be turned over to the George Washington Memorial Parkway fund. A rare cloth map of the Capital, printed in 1792, inspired Mr. Delano to order a new edition.

Twenty-eight inches square, the handkerchief map reproduces the L'Enfant plan, adjacent country, historic landmarks and sketches of important buildings. It was designed by Mildred G. Burrage, of Kennebunkport, Me.

"Mad Dog" Cry Seldom Justified, Records Show

Post Staff Photos.

Not One Case of Rabies Found by Authorities in Past Two Years.

Every Animal That Bites Person Is Watched for Two Weeks.

Mad dog!

The cry heard so often in the residential sections in hot weather, striking terror into mothers' hearts usually is unjustified.

In all the mad-dog alarms here since 1931, not one case of rabies has been found. This is disclosed by records of the District poundmaster, Walter R. Smith, and Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer.

As many as six mad-dog calls were received in a single day.

None Was Mad.

Between 800 and 900 cases of dog bites are reported yearly. Invariably the health office sends an inspector to watch the animal two weeks.

Sick dogs, thirsty dogs and dogs merely lost and afraid have caused many of the alarms. Some have been killed by police; some captured by the pound wagon, others have escaped. But none has been mad.

Whenever there is a suspicion of rabies the heads are examined by the Bureau of Animal Husbandry.

The District pound annually handles between 5,000 and 6,000 dogs, some 1,200 or 1,300 cats and a smattering of horses, goats, sheep and hogs.

All Cats Killed.

Of the 5,105 dogs handled during the fiscal year recently ended, 377 were redeemed, 948 sold, 157 returned to owners, and 3,552 killed. Seven remain at the pound.

All the cats were killed. Fees amounted to $2,534.

In the past summer 130 dogs were seized for wearing no muzzles, and 794 were caught with neither muzzles nor tags.

Hebrews Prepare For Yom Kippur

Fasting to Mark Holy Day Starting Friday Night.

Yom Kippur, most solemn holy day in the Jewish calendar, will be observed in reformed and orthodox congregations. The observance will start Friday at sunset, ending Saturday at the corresponding hour.

Known as the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur is marked by 24-hour fasting, prayer and penitence. Its principal purpose is to arouse the consciousness of sin and encourgage the desire for atonement and reconciliation with God.

The holy day is observed universally by Jews, who cease all business to worship. It is ordained in the Bible to be celebrated on the tenth day of the seventh month, Tishri.

Municipal Bonds Marketed by U. S.

Treasury Holdings Will Be Reduced $200,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is putting in excess of $200,000,000 of municipal securities on the market.

The securities are those of the corporation purchased to provide funds for building water and sewer systems, toll bridges, docks, tunnels and the like, by local governments.

Harvey C. Couch, corporation director, announced that letters have gone out to dealers in municipal securities over the land inviting them to acquaint potential bond purchasers of the values offered.

Sale of these bonds, Couch said, would lessen the burden on the Treasury.

Esperanto Class Planned.

A special free class to prepare advanced Esperanto students to teach the international language will begin Tuesday at Mount Pleasant Public Library. The class will meet weekly from 6 to 9 p. m. Registration may be made at the library Tuesday between 7:15 and 8 p. m.

Soapy Scrap!

Boys Club to Make "War" With Suds and Brooms.

A fight to the finish will be waged at the Boys Club this week behind closed doors.

A. Boyd Hines, commander in chief, will direct battle formation of the members. The assault will cover every square inch of space from rooftop to furnace.

The most modern weapons, soapsuds and brooms, will be utilized.

Bread Advance In Washington Leads Nation

Seven-Mill Jump Shown, With Next Highest Four Mills.

Washington led the country in increase in bread prices, Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel for the Agricultural Adjustment Association, said yesterday.

Between August 15 and 29 bread prices here jumped from 7.2 cents a loaf to 7.9 cents, a rise of 7 mills.

Butte, Mont., where the average price for a pound loaf is 8.2 cents today, reported an increase of only 4 mills. Other major cities showing increases were Jacksonville, Fla., 4 mills; Detroit, 3 mills, and Louisville, 3 mills.

Bakers interested in Government protection under marketing agreements have an opportunity to give the public protection in return by including in such agreements quality and quantity standards for bread, Dr. Howe said.

Howe asserted the American Bakers Association had some further explaining to do before he is satisfied with the seeming disparity in bread prices. He proposed bakers voluntarily set bread standards, with Government approval, "on the basis of nutritive content and certain quality factors."

Woman's Purse Seized.

A hatless and coatless man snatched the purse of Miss Mary T. Smith, 1464 Clifton street northwest, as she walked in Rock Creek Park near Pierce Mill late yesterday. The pocketbook contained $2 and change, she reported.

War Mothers Visit Unknown Soldier Tomb

75 Wearing Gold Stars Hear Preparedness Address.

American Gold Star Mothers from New York, Massachusetts and the District of Columbia made a pilgrimage to Arlington National Cemetery yesterday and placed wreaths on the Unknown Soldier's Tomb after services in the Amphitheater.

Maj. Raymond O. Barton, U. S. A., professor of military science and tactics at Georgetown University, was the principal speaker.

"We have principles that the people of this country will not allow to be trampled into the ground without fighting," Maj. Barton told the 75 war mothers.

Urges Preparedness.

"We are a peace-loving nation, but war may come again, and you can not send a people into war en masse without adequate peace-time preparedness, unless more men are to be needlessly killed," he said.

Other speakers included Mrs. Mary Daniels, acting chaplain, who read the "Gold Star Mother's Prayer;" the Rev. Leonard DeVries, of Alexandria, and Miss Faustine Davis, national president of the Women Overseas Workers.

Mrs. Mathilde Burling, of New York, who organized the Gold Star Mother pilgrimage to Europe, presided. Music was provided by the U. S. Army Band.

To Be Annual Event.

A wreath also was placed on the Tampa Monument, honoring the anniversary of the sinking of the U. S. S. Tampa.

Earlier in the day the mothers attended services in the Franciscan Monastery.

According to Mrs. Burling, it is intended to make this pilgrimage an annual event.

Inflation Plan Scored As Living Cost Boost

Inflation is the most volatile of all nostrums, and as difficult to control as escaping gas, according to a statement issued yesterday by Prof. John Dewey, president of the People's lobby. He said:

"It is difficult to believe that the nearly one-fifth of the American families now in degrading poverty, and a fifth only slightly above such poverty, will quietly submit to the increase of one-quarter to one-third in the cost of living."

Maj. Gen. Black, Engineer Head, War Hero, Dies

Distinguished Soldier and Authority on Rivers Pneumonia Victim.

Maj. Gen. William Murray Black, 78, former chief of Army Engineers, died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital, of pneumonia.

One of the country's most distinguished soldiers and engineers, Gen. Black was born at Lancaster, Pa., and graduated from West Point in 1877. He was appointed lieutenant colonel and chief engineer of the U. S. Volunteers in 1898, and honorably discharged from volunteer service in 1899.

He specialized on river and harbor improvement. For a time he served as assistant instructor of practical military engineering at West Point. He also was instructor in civil engineering at the U. S. Engineers School at Willets Point.

Served in Philippines.

From 1895 until 1897 Gen. Black was assistant in charge of works and fortifications here. He served as chief army engineer in the Philippines in 1898. He also served with distinction in Cuba under Gen. Leonard Wood. From 1901 until 1903 he did observation work in the Panama Canal Zone.

He was appointed chief of engineers March 7, 1916. On October 8, 1917, he was elevated to the rank of major general.

Gen. Black was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in 1918 for "especially meritorious service in planning and administering the engineering and military railway service during the war."

He was a frequent contributor to engineering periodicals, and author of several engineering textbooks.

Member of Legion.

Gen. Black was a member of the National Monument Society, the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the United States Institute of Consulting Engineers. He belonged to many other organizations, including the American Legion.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Black, and three sons, Robert D., Maj. Percy G. Black, on duty in Hawaii, and William Murray Black, jr., of Washington. He made his home here at 2723 N street northwest.

Funeral services will be held at West Point tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Crime Rate Low For Jewish Race

Prison Percentage Under Population Portion.

The percentage of Jews committed to penal institutions in this country is much below their percentage of the total population, it was revealed yesterday in statistics compiled by Dr. H. S. Linfield, Jewish Statistical Bureau director.

In a survey of prisons in the State of New York, Dr. Linfield found that although the Jews constitute over 15 per cent of the population of New York, the number of Jews committed to State prisons in 1932 formed only 4.9 per cent of the total.

Similar percentages were found in the other States. In Illinois the Jewish prisoners constituted 1.4 per cent of the total number committed to the State prisons in 1929 and 1930. Crime among Jewish women was reported to be proportionately even lower than among Jewish men.

North Carolina Repeal Vote Seen

District Woman Official Helped Wets.

North Carolina will vote decisively for repeal November 7, Mrs. William Beverley Mason, chairman of the District division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, said yesterday on her return from Biltmore, N. C.

Mrs. Mason has been assisting Mrs. Louis Bourne, North Carolina chairman of the women's antiprohibition group, in plans for an intensive repeal campaign.

Plans for a District liquor control program will be outlined early next month.

Two Capital Girls Rank High at Mount Holyoke

Miss Mae F. Rastall, of 5357 Reno road northwest, and Miss Grace C. Carter, of Twelfth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, students at Mount Holyoke College, are among undergraduates who averaged 90 or higher in the academic year 1932-1933.

Miss Carter, class of 1935, was named a Sarah Williston scholar, having an average of 85 or higher in the first two years. She received one of the Sarah Williston prizes, given to Sarah Williston scholars standing highest in their classes. Miss Rastall, a member of the present senior class, was last year named a Sarah Williston scholar and prize winner.
